There is the joyous and also the pathetic side to Christmas. Amid household scenes of plenty, there is the opposite picture of scarcity. It is the age-old story of too much for some and too little for others. Some are delighted, others disappointed. Our economic situation has its pathetic parallel at a time when something like an equivalent joy should find its way into every home.

Two kiddies, whose appearance indicated they didn't have a Chinaman's chance to get what they wanted, had their little faces pressed closely against the display window; there was danger in their eagerness that it might break. What they wanted Santa Claus to bring them was not only inside the window, but also inside their heart. It is such disappointments, inevitable in their bestowal, that projects a tinge of sorrow into the holiday season.

"Mamma, buy me that," said a little lad, pointing to a choo-choo train. He wanted to go places; wanted to see the wheels go "round. What boy doesn't? Mamma diplomatically fenced the question. Maybe it was one of those cases where mamma knew the wish could not be granted, and in her wise way laid the foundation for a disappointment. The Old Philosopher said not to promise anything, but to deliver. When you are answering the children's questions, do not build their expectations to the point where it will leave them with a heartache.

"Sharing the good things of life," (not original) isn't a bad Christmas slogan. Do not withhold your charities at this happy time. If you have too much, and many of you have, the child will out until the Books are balanced in eternity, give now and give liberally and establish a credit in the Heavenly bank where it will offset a lot of your earthly liabilities.

Santa Claus is mythical to most of us, but he is so real to the child that he plays an important part in their expectations. Unless you and I become a Santa Claus the kiddies will be disappointed. I've been in homes where Santa Claus left so many gifts the children were confused as to which one they liked best. And then you and I have known homes where stockings were empty, and we didn't do a thing to soften the blow.

Yes, Christmas is a happy season if you make it so. In the old days I used to go to the Christmas entertainments where presents were placed on the tree, and many a child left the place broken-hearted because Saint Nick wasn't as good as had been represented. Glad that custom has disappeared, and gifts are now all equal and every child is remembered.

But you can't take from those who have passed through that period of hanging their stockings on the mantle, the expectation of the morning when they delved into the knitted stocking, and were joyously happy when they took from it mixed candy, some peanuts, an apple, and maybe an orange.

These homely references to the old Christmas are not understood by the modern generation, but you would take the bright spot out of many lives if the memory of those days were erased. Every generation to its day, and may the children of the now build up a remembrance as sweet and comforting.

Japan Humble In Taking Blame For Panay Attack

Tokyo Conceals Details Of Note From Nipponese

TOKYO. (AP)—Full responsibility for the sinking of the Panay was assumed today by the Japanese government. In a note delivered to the United States ambassador, Japan said that the flying squadron, commander and "all others responsible" had been punished, and assured the American government "definite and specific steps" had been taken to prevent a recurrence.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota personally handed the note to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew at 7 p. m. tonight (2 a. m. PST) after approval by the cabinet and sanction by Emperor Hirohito.

FLYERS PUNISHED.

The text was not published in Japan.

Hirota did not make clear how the responsible bombers were punished, except that they were dealt with "according to law."

The note, while holding that the sinking of the Panay was "entirely due to a mistake," nevertheless said: "The Japanese navy has issued without delay strict orders to exercise the greatest caution in every area where warships and other vessels of America or any other third power are present, in order to avoid a recurrence of a similar mistake, even at the sacrifice of strategic advantage in attacking Chinese troops."

ORDERS ISSUED

"Furthermore, rigid orders have been issued to the military, naval and foreign office authorities to pay, in the light of the present untoward incident, greater attention than hitherto to observance of instructions that have been repeatedly given against infringement, or unwarranted interference with, rights or interests of the United States and other third powers."

Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, naval minister, today cited "battlefield

DEATH TAKES F. C. ELLIOTT

Christmas came quietly and sorrowfully to the Frederick C. (Fritz) Elliott home today.

Early this morning Fritz Elliott, one of the most popular and widely-known of Santa Ana's younger set, died at St. Joseph's hospital. He had been stricken five months ago with a mysterious ailment which defied the diagnosis of Southern California's best surgeons.

Mr. Elliott was 36 years of age, and had lived in Santa Ana for the past 15 years. His home was at 2210 North Ross street. He had served for a number of years as escrow officer of the Orange County Title Company, was an officer of Comstock, Minn., and a member of Tux 'N Gown.

Immediate survivors include his widow, Charlotte La Pierre Elliott, and his 10-year-old daughter, Constance June. Others include his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ella June La Pierre; a brother, Arthur Charles Elliott of Rochester, Minn., and a brother-in-law, Dr. Richard La Pierre of Stanford University.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Brown and Wagner Colonial Chapel. The Rev. W. J. Hatter will officiate, with interment to follow in Fairhaven cemetery.

HANGCHOW FALLS BEFORE JAPAN DRIVE

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Japanese tonight announced that Hangchow, rich Chinese seaport and capital of Chekiang province 100 miles south of Shanghai, was captured today by troops simultaneously entering all the city's gates.

Fall of the city to invaders who have overrun thousands of square miles of territory came as United States authorities made strong representations to Japanese over a reported insult to the American flag at Wuhu, Dec. 13.

There was no information immediately on the extent of fighting around Hangchow, but indications were that the city had capitulated.

GAS COMPANY BOOSTS WAGES

A new scale of minimum wages will go into effect Jan. 1 among Orange county workers of the Southern Counties Gas Company which will amount to an approximate increase of 5 per cent.

The new scale was set forth at a meeting of the Pacific Gas Workers' Union last night and is reported by Russel Rowland, union recording secretary, coming about as result of negotiations between the executive council of the union and Los Angeles officials of the company.

The exact amount of monetary increase was not available today, officials of the gas company stated, owing to the fact there are scores of classifications of work involved in the increase at various rates of pay.

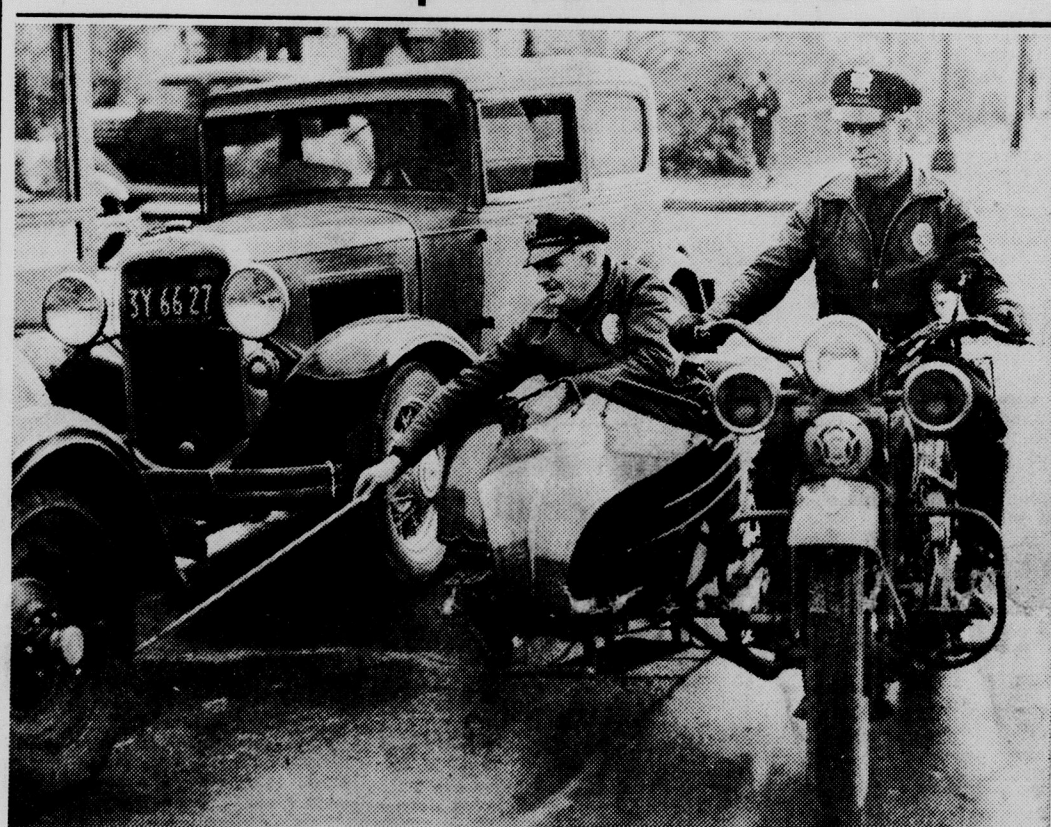

Flaming Well Under Control

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The Richfield Oil company's $100,000 torch—a premature gas well—burned itself out today. R. D. Montgomery, exploitation manager, expressed the opinion the unexpected gas pocket has exhausted itself.

KILRAIN RITES

QUINCY, Mass. (AP)—Simple funeral services were held today for Jake Kilrain, veteran prize fighter. Solemn requiem mass was sung at St. Mary's Catholic church by the Rev. John J. Brown in the presence of 100 relatives and friends. Kilrain was buried in St. Mary's cemetery, behind the church.

Police Prepare Christmas Cards

Here's the "bathtub" marking squad in action "putting the finger" on holiday parkers here and there. Some of these chalk marks being made by Officer Charles Neer (in tub) will be good for Christmas remembrances in traffic court. Officer Chet Gross is pilot for the outfit.

"Peace On Earth Good Will" Etc.

VATICAN CITY.—Pope Pius, in reply today to Cardinal's Christmas greetings, deplored religious persecution in Germany and defended the church against accusations of "playing politics."

A semi-official summary of the pontiff's remarks said: After thanking the cardinals for their good wishes, the Holy Father said he wished to add two precise words of fact and of principle.

"The word of fact consisted of affirming that real religious persecution exists in Germany and against the church that it is not doing its religious duties, but is playing politics."

The ceremonies in concistorial hall were attended by 29 cardinals. Christmas greetings to the Pope were read by Cardinal Pignatelli di Belmonte.

MOSCOW.—Officials of the Soviet Union, where Christmas has been outlawed for 20 years, saw a reminder of Christmas eve on the Red Square itself.—A tall, electrically lighted Christmas tree in the courtyard of the American Embassy.

METZ, France.—Four German spies held in France and four French spies in Germany were liberated in a Christmas exchange of prisoners.

LONDON.—Butchers sped delivery of boards' heads for traditional Christmas dinners. Weather experts doubled hopes of a white Christmas with predictions of fog and rain.

FIND BODY OF DEAD 'SANTA'

BOSTON. (AP)—Captain Richard E. Cobb, from whose plane Corporal Harold Kraner, 35, fell in a Santa Claus suit to his death, today found Kraner's body just off the Boston airport. It was entangled in the shrouds of a sudden parachute.

The aviator, flying low over the harbor on the second day's search for Kraner, saw the body in about 15 feet of water.

The parachute cords were tightly wrapped around Kraner's neck, indicating he might have strangled. Horrified children saw Kraner disappear into the dusky waters of the harbor Wednesday as he floated downward to open a Christmas party.

Mrs. Roosevelt Reaches Seattle

SEATTLE. (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt reached Seattle today with only one pressing engagement—to help her two grandchildren decorate a Christmas tree.

The nation's first lady, who sped across country from Washington, D. C. by plane and train to spend Christmas with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger, arrived from Portland this morning.

TERUEL FATE UNCERTAIN

MADRID.—General staff headquarters on the central front announced today that all insurgent resistance within Teruel had been crushed.

The insurgent garrison at Teruel was still resolutely holding out, according to a telegram received by Spanish press services in London from Salamanca. It said all government attacks had been repelled and many government soldiers were captured.

The telegram said government forces suffered particularly heavy casualties when they tried to reoccupy positions they formerly held on Celadras road.

The heaviest fighting was reported along Villastar ridge, three miles south of Teruel, where the insurgents were carrying out an encircling movement against the town. Insurgent reinforcements were approaching from the north in hope of soon establishing contact with the defenders.

Tenor Gorilla Screams at Door

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The police complaint board telephone operator had to ask twice to be sure he heard the voice screaming:

"There's a big gorilla at my front door."

"Is he drunk?" and "What does he want?" were the operator's logical questions.

"He wants in," yelled the voice. "He keeps pounding his chest and yelling."

"He must be drunk," contended the operator.

So the patrol officers investigated. It really was a gorilla—with a tenor voice—a zoo fugitive.

ANOTHER QUAKE

NEW YORK. (AP)—The Fordham university seismograph recorded an earth shock today at 1:29:45 a. m. E. S. T., 3570 miles from New York, "possibly in Chile or Alaska." It was followed by a slight shock at 1:37:13.

Seize Papers On Japan Liner In Espionage Drive

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Destroyers prowled through Pacific waters today, extra guards ringed navy yards, one Japanese-owned tuna clipper was seized and federal agents raided the Japanese liner Tatsuta Maru, in what was described authoritatively as a widespread anti-espionage drive.

Reports published in San Francisco claimed U. S. customs agents boarded the Tatsuta Maru yesterday and seized a sheaf of Orient-bound letters reportedly linked with a coastwise espionage plot.

The government men acted in secrecy, but it was understood the letters related to operations and activity at the Bremerton Navy Yard at Puget Sound. The letters supposedly had been forwarded to San Francisco from Seattle, and had been entrusted to an unidentified person aboard the vessel.

Fleet destroyers continued patrol off San Diego and San Pedro, while Mare Island navy yard at San Francisco was ringed with extra guards.

Seizure of a 100-foot tuna clipper, Nancy Hanks, registered to an American-born Japanese, was followed by an announcement from federal officials at Los Angeles that another, and possibly five more boats suspected of Japanese ownership, would be detained. They alleged the Nancy Hanks actually was owned by Y. Suzuki, Japanese subject, although flying port duty free for more than five years.

A libel-in-admiralty action, filed against the clipper, would allow its sale for damages, if upheld. Nearly $1,000,000 in unpaid duties are involved.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT IN 1-GIRL STRIKE

Court Asked to Ban One-Man Picket Line

Adolph Burman, owner of the A-1 cleaners and dyers, went to court today to fight a one-man picket line in front of his plant.

Burman filed suit in superior court for an injunction against the International Association of Cleaning and Dye House Workers' union, and several union officials, prohibiting them from picketing his three establishments.

The one-man picket line was established this week after one woman employee walked out. Burman, in a petition filed by Attorney N. D. Meyer, charged that union officials had entered into a conspiracy to force his employees into the union against their wishes.

He also demanded $5000 damages for the picketing.

Burman operates three plants, two in Santa Ana, at 423½ West Fourth street and 901 South Main street, and one in Orange, at 111 West Chapman avenue. He has charged that the picketing is a result of his low prices, and is an attempt to make him raise them.

Named as defendants in the suit are I. W. Downey, and B. E. Crowley, business agent and secretary of the local union; The Santa Ana Central Labor council, Jack Trendle, secretary of the council; William Lehman, and Salvatore Moreada.

Strike conditions do not prevail, Burman alleges, and there had been neither a walkout nor any demand for collective bargaining.

PIONEER, 101, DEATH VICTIM

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)—Rafael Lobato, 101-year-old pioneer of Arizona and New Mexico, died in a hospital here yesterday.

Lobato's age was authenticated by a record of his baptism June 23, 1836, which bore the signature of the Very Rev. P. F. Mahoney, chancellor at "The Archbishop's House," Santa Fe, N. M. The birth date was given as June 14 of that year.

He left with his father, Frank Chabina, Jr., 19, who received an eye from elderly John Amos, quietly slipped out of Charity hospital yesterday to spend Christmas with his family at Albany, La.

He left with his father, Frank Chabina, Jr., without telling his ward friends whether he would return. His nurses said he had received a radio offer last night to go to New York city but that he had not decided whether to accept it.

The nurse said Chabina could distinguish objects vaguely through his ailing left eye.

BURGLARS DO WELL HERE

Shirts, soap, crayons, three dozen dresses and a glass of water were snatched by Christmas burglars last night, and two Santa Ana families were doing their shopping all over again today.

Loot amounting to $133.40 was stolen from the C. B. McIlveen home, 915 North Olive street, while the family was away for two hours last night, police were told. Included in the missing list were a diamond ring valued at $125, and a number of Christmas packages.

Next door, at the Weston Walker home, 915 North Olive street, burglars stole the entire stack of family Christmas presents, including shirts, soap, candy, perfume, and a set of crayons. Entry in both cases was made through a window.

Three dozen $2 wash dresses were stolen, along with a car belonging to C. B. Steele, dress shop proprietor of 2304 North Park boulevard, last night. The car in which the dresses were being carried was valued at $800, and was taken from the corner of Santa Clara avenue and Park boulevard.

Burglars who entered the S. D. Lewis home, 2340 Spurgeon street, took nothing but a glass of water from the kitchen, Mrs. Lewis told officers. The home, she said, was broken into between 1 and 6 p. m.

Weather Man Predicts Rain For Christmas

If Santa Claus lingers in Orange county until tomorrow he's going to get his feet wet.

Because the weather man is going to hand out a Christmas bonus in the form of rain to ranchers. That was his promise today, anyway.

Clear and cool tonight for Christmas carolers; frost in the interior; probable rain tomorrow. That was the official weather prediction today.

forting as it did to those of the days of long ago.

This is a sort of a mellow season when you feel more kindly toward the fellow you don't like so very well at any other time of the year. Guess it's in the air. The message of two thousand years ago—or near that many—kind o' gets under your hide whether you know what it's all about or not. If nations would absorb the spirit of the occasion we would be proclaiming the gospel of peace instead of the threat of war.

Amid the hurrying to and fro of your belated shopping can't you think of some one you can make happy Christmas morning by sending anonymous a present of some kind? It doesn't need to cost much. But the contentment it will bring to you will enrich your soul. It will be your happiest Christmas if you have never gone outside of your loved ones to shower your affection.

Before I forget it I want to wish everybody a Merry Christmas, maybe some a little merrier than others, but that is because I know them better. The oftener I am permitted to see the light of another Christmas morning the more I am convinced that it is just one more opportunity to share with others in order to increase our own blessings.

CROWD ATTEND THEFT HEARING

LONDON. (AP) — Fashionably dressed men and women jostled for seats in Westminster police court here at the hearing of four "young men about Mayfair" charged with a $70,000 jewel robbery.

All were remanded for further hearing Jan. 6. Evidence against them was not disclosed. One defendant, J. C. M. Lonsdale, 23, was granted $5000 bail. The others were David Wilmer, 24, son of a retired brigadier; P. M. Jenkins, 21, and R. P. Harley, 20. Harley was described as a Curzon street journalist.

All four moved in swanky West End society circles. Three men lured the representative of Cartiers, famous Bond street jewelry firm, into a West End hotel last Monday night and robbed him of gems. Police said the three represented themselves as agents of a "big continental buyer."

The jewelry firm representative was beat until unconscious and his assailants took nine diamond rings from his pocket.

FAMED POLO STAR MARRIES

MONTEREY. (AP) — William S. Tevis, Jr., one of the country's ranking polo players, and Irene Wren Haddon of Burlingame, were married yesterday at the home of Tevis' brother, Lloyd in Carmel. The Rev. Homer C. Bodley of Carmel Community church performed the ceremony in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Baldwin, Mrs. McKim Hollins, prominent peninsula socialites; Mrs. E. D. Girvin of San Francisco, Lansing Tevis, another brother of the bridegroom; George Gordon Moore, Dick Leuschner, a poloist; Irwin Keeler of San Francisco and Fred Ledbetter of Santa Barbara. Tevis and his bride boarded his airplane and departed for an unannounced destination.

College Star Goes to Prison

DETROIT. (AP) — William Hawthorne, former probationary Detroit policeman who shot and killed his wife, was sentenced here to serve 14 to 15 years in prison for manslaughter.

The sentence pronounced by Recorder's Judge George Murphy was the maximum allowed by the verdict of the jury which convicted him Monday. Hawthorne, former Michigan State Normal college pole vaulter, was tried only for the shooting of John N. Barrett, whom he accused of having won his wife's affections. Hawthorne testified he and the former Catherine Fox were secretly married at college but never lived together.

La Pinata Showers On Delhi

Delhi thumbed back through the pages of time for its Christmas party today.

Santa Claus wears no beard in Delhi.

In fact, he hangs from the ceiling with a rope around his neck. Delhi children will celebrate La Pinata tomorrow, in the home of "Mayor" Matt Lujan. La Pinata is a very peculiar Christmas game, more like blind-man's buff than anything else, but it gets results. And it gets them the way Latin Delhi wants them.

Two hundred screaming little brown-faced children will play their traditional game at 11 o'clock. Here's the deal: First, a huge crock, or barrel, is found and filled to the brim with candy, toys and presents of various kinds. If possible it is dressed in burlesque garb. Then it is hung from the ceiling with a rope.

In a long line get the kids of Delhi, and at the head stands "Mayor" Lujan. One by one they are blindfolded, handed a long, heavy stick, and whirled about three times. Then they are turned loose to swing as lustily as possible at the elusive effigy of St. Nick.

Mostly they miss — but when they hit, then Christmas comes to Delhi, as hundreds of presents cascade to the floor. From there on it's wild scramble, on a catch-as-catch-can basis. The same party has been held for hundreds of years in Mexican homes.

More than a score of Santa Ana business men and city and county officials cooperated with Lujan in providing the freight for this Mexican Nick, he said.

JAP FISHING BOAT SEIZED AT HARBOR

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — Seizure of a Japanese fishing boat, the "Nancy Hanks," by federal officials at the harbor was disclosed today by United States Attorney Benjamin Harrison.

He said the seizure was a part of a new program of scrutinizing the ownership of all Japanese fishing boats operated in southern waters.

The Nancy Hanks will be held pending completion of an investigation as to her ownership. Harrison said the craft, valued at $25,000 and built at Tacoma, Wash., was registered to Masaki Kuwabara, American born but of Japanese descent.

There have been complaints, however, said Harrison, "that the real owner of the Nancy Hanks is Y. Suzuki, a Japanese citizen."

WOMAN DIES IN PARK MYSTERY

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP) — An unidentified woman was found near Golden Gate park yesterday and died later without revealing her identity.

Partly emergency hospital attendants said the woman, about 35 years old, had suffered a broken pelvis, fractured skull and internal injuries.

They said she murmured "Ruth Lyon" shortly before she died. Absence of a pulse, skidmarks and broken glass led police to believe she had been struck somewhere else and taken to the spot where she was found.

A bloodstained automobile was discovered in the vicinity and police questioned the owner, who said he had a fight with hitchhikers. He was not detained.

Dr. Sherman Leland, autopsy surgeon, said the victim's injuries made it appear the woman had been struck by an automobile.

Explosion Lifts House Off Ground

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — An explosion lifted a house from the ground and dropped it in splinters yesterday, just two minutes after the owner, Lester Engels, had left.

The explosion shattered windows in adjacent homes and set two of them on fire, but firemen soon brought the flames under control. A girl was cut by flying glass.

Engels said he smelled gas in the cellar and had run across the street to telephone the company.

Workmen reported finding a two-inch break in the main near the Engels residence.

TOWNSEND MEETING
Roy J. Webb, representative of the national Townsend offices in Chicago, will be the speaker at Monday night's meeting of Santa Ana Townsend club No. 2, at 509 West Fourth street, officials announced today. Mrs. Bessie Pintani will be soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Webb at the piano.

dren often gave them a swift kick to see if they were the real thing.

SHANGHAI. — War-time curfew regulations were relaxed for Shanghai's Christmas eve celebration.

HANGCHOW. — Americans heard gunfire instead of carols. No peace on China's good earth.

MADRID. — The government prepared to distribute food, candy and liquor to soldiers in the trenches.

PARIS. — Night spot prices were up 15 per cent over a year ago but the number of reservations was about normal. Champagne prices at hotels ran from 60 to 150 francs ($1.98 to $4.95) a bottle.

SANDRINGHAM. — The Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose hung their stockings by the palace chimney, a royal symbol of democracy.

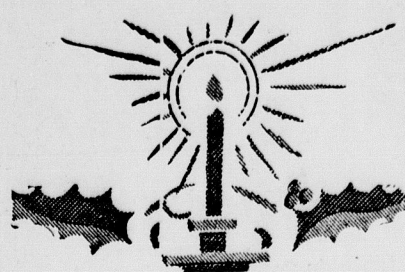

JERUSALEM. — Two Jewish grave diggers were ambushed and wounded near Mount Olivet's Jewish cemetery in a continuation of Jewish-Arab holy land tension.

DEATH SUSPECT IN PADDED CELL

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — Because Ernest Lee Dickey, 25, from Ardmore, Okla., was raging and swearing in his padded cell, Municipal Judge Newcomb Condee postponed his preliminary hearing on murder charges until Jan. 6.

Dickey is accused of killing Antonio Ramirez, 50, because he believed Ramirez had a sinister influence over his estranged wife, Bonnie Dickey, 22. The shooting occurred Dec. 13 at Ramirez's beer parlor, where Mrs. Dickey was a waitress. Most of the time since then Dickey has been in a padded cell, under observation by psychiatrists.

LOSES DAMAGE SUIT
SAN BERNARDINO. (AP) — Mrs. N. R. Byram of Los Angeles has lost a $18,000 automobile accident damage suit against Thomas M. Murphy, former police detective captain of that city, and the City of Los Angeles. Mrs. Byram, claimed by her physician to have been permanently injured, was brought into court on a stretcher. She had won a $12,000 verdict in the first trial of the case.

BANK WORKERS
GET $4145

Employees of the First National bank received Christmas bonuses this morning totalling $4145.90 at a party given by the banking institution at Daniger's cafe. President A. I. Mellenthin introduced W. B. Williams, vice-president and cashier of the bank, who acted as master of ceremonies during the program at the early breakfast.

Mrs. Pearl Livesay, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong, sang a solo and Dr. O. Scott McFarland of the Presbyterian church gave a short Christmas talk before the group. The bonus checks were distributed by Mr. Williams. Jeff Wild was in charge of arrangements for the affair.

SOUGHT ON CHECK CHARGE
A tall young man who passed a $15 worthless check on a Tus-tin dress shop, was being sought by sheriff's deputies today. The man, officers were told, passed the check on the Harriet Rose Dress shop yesterday afternoon. It was written on an Orange bank.

Bean Growers Get
$15,000 Return

Thirty-six Orange county growers of black-eyed beans peeped in their Christmas stockings today—and found $15,000!

Cogan and White, Santa Ana, sales agents for the black-eyed pool, announced the $15,000 present as the first payment of the pool on the 1937 crop.
At the same time, they announced that immediately after Jan. 1 the pool will distribute the "clean-up" payment on the 1936 crop, from refunded premium adjustments, and anticipated a second payment on the 1937 crop within a short time.

The clean-up payment will give grower members of the pool an average return of $4.93½ per 100 pounds on their 1936 crop, over and above the cost of cleaning, storage and fumigation. This is generally considered an unusually high price for the year.
The pool was organized two years ago, with 22 initial members. Cogan and White attributed its growth to 36 to the growers' increasing realization of the necessity and soundness of cooperative marketing of agricultural products.

Traffic Court
Flattens Wallets

Oswald Jones may have a clear conscience this Christmas—but his wallet was a bit flatter today, following a visit to City Judge John G. Mitchell's court yesterday.
A three-barreled charge cost Jones a total of $18. He paid for speeding, failing to make a boulevard stop and overtime parking.
Milton W. Mitchell will have a Christmas dinner in the county jail. He was fined $200 on drunk driving charges, then sentenced to jail when he said he was unable to pay.

Leo A. Deatrick and Warren M.
Barnhill paid $8 each for speeding. C. H. Hicks donated $1 for leaving his motor running unattended. Los Angeles paid a similar amount for parking in a yellow zone, and Oscar E. Gutzman paid $2 for failing to make a boulevard stop.

Turkey Dinner
For Homeless Men

Three hundred Christmas baskets were distributed this afternoon to the city's needy from the Salvation Army auditorium, 214 North Sycamore street, result of an Army drive conducted during the past several weeks.
A turkey dinner will be served tomorrow to the homeless men staying at the Salvation Army shelter. Major Nason announced today, and on Dec. 30 a Christmas tree entertainment for underprivileged children will be held.

Creamery Puts Out
Christmas Bonus

Excelsior Creamery's Christmas stocking was a double-barreled one this year.
Not only did the company distribute a bonus to more than 125 employees, but every customer, wholesale or retail, on company routes was presented with a package of spread cheese today.

LIGHT FADES FOR FRIEND

By "SKINNY"

The immutability of the law of nature imposes its penalties upon the weak and the strong, the young and the old. In the sunset of life and at the open door of young manhood all yield to the vicissitudes of the flesh. It was at the later threshold that my good friend "Fritz" C. Elliott answered, "They will be done," and passed into the peaceful valley of those young men who early in life recognized the more mature responsibilities. His duties as an escrow officer brought to him important decisions, to which he gave the most careful and studious attention. His colleagues esteemed him, and executives bestowed their unrestricted faith. He was the personification of integrity, and his unceasing industry an outstanding trait of character. It seems like an inequitable decision that to those whose horizon of hope is so promising they must wither like the flowers of the field, but the memory of their inspiring life is our beacon of encouragement. Men and communities are enriched as individuals contribute their good influence. The friends of "Fritz" Elliott and the city of which he was a part are the beneficiaries of his clean and wholesome life. May the requiems of memory continue to come to us as an encouragement to make a comparable contribution to those we love, and for the betterment of mankind.

Mother Dies

In the midst of Christmas gaily-ty, friends were extending sympathy to Mrs. Lyle Anderson today. She received word yesterday of the death of her mother, Mrs. Mina Gregg, at Topeka, Kan.
Mrs. Anderson was called east earlier in the fall by her mother's serious illness, but upon the latter's rallying, returned to her home here. She will not go east for the funeral.

Man Draws Gun in

An unidentified man who angers easily was being sought by police today for pulling a gun on Mac
Charles, 1025 Lincoln avenue.
Charles told police last night that he, J. M. Lujan and Andrew Cruz were chatting at Lujan's home when the unidentified man, thought to be a neighbor, came into, quarreled and pushed an automatic in Charles' face. There were no casualties.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

One Long Beach man awoke in jail today and two others were nursing cuts and bruises as the result of an expedition to Santa Ana last night.

Alfred Paul Galaz was jailed by Santa Ana police after his car assertedly struck a parked auto belonging to Clyde Planchon in the 800 block, South Main street.
He was booked on drunk charges.
Two passengers in the Galaz car, Gilbert Rosales and Walter Sejan, were taken to the county hospital for first aid treatment and then released.

WHAT TO DO WHEN JOB FAILS YOU

If you lose your job, there are two things the state would advise you to do at once.
First, notify Robert J. Clay, head of the Orange County Unemployment Reserves Commission, you are without work and then register with Ray Ferguson of the Orange County State Employment Service for the purpose of getting employment.

Both these transactions will be necessary after Jan. 1, 1938 if you expect to receive unemployment compensation.
The California State Employment Service, which has been established for some years, has been put into operation on the theory that as many workers as possible in California should be gainfully employed, thereby maintaining the purchasing power of the state's working population.

It is also the wish of the state that a reasonable weekly amount of money go to the worker who, through no fault of his own, some day finds himself unemployed and without finances to tide him over until the next job. This is the objective of the Unemployment Reserves Commission office which will officially open here Jan. 1.

The State Unemployment Reserves Commission, while closely related to the State Employment Service, is to operate as a separate department. The two offices are located in the same building for the convenience of the worker who becomes unemployed and the employer who needs employees.

450 at I. O. O. F. Holiday Party

Four-hundred-and-fifty members of the I. O. O. F. lodge and their children enjoyed the annual Christmas party at the hall last night. Six acts of vaudeville from the Orpheum circuit were presented.

Santa Claus (George Stoval) presented the guests with Christmas presents from a lovely decorated Christmas tree. Ben Baker and George Peters were in charge of arranging the affair assisted by a lodge committee.

Journalist in Jail on Way Home

Frank Henry Johnston, 32-year-old Shanghai journalist, will spend the next 90 days in the county jail then be deported, either to China or England.

Johnston, just out of San Quentin after serving two years on a robbery charge, was booked here yesterday afternoon by Deputy U. S. Marshall Frank Besser, on illegal entry charges, pending deportation proceedings. The prisoner, a British subject, told officers he was reared in Shanghai.

Cops Play Host To Boy Scouts

Cops aren't always tough guys who go around tagging your cars and arresting lawbreakers. Sometimes they're Santa Clauses.

Yesterday the city's police force put on a Christmas party for Boy Scout troop 26, at the city hall. Patrolman Burnette Lane was a jovial St. Nick for the occasion.

PROBATION VIOLATORS

Fred K. Handy, Jr., 29-year-old Pasadena salesman, was booked at county jail yesterday on probation violation charges. He was arrested by Deputy Probation Officer D. R. McMillan.

Prize Winner

MARLENE ROSE POPP

Marlene Rose Popp, two years old, won a cash prize today for being the subject of the prettiest child picture in the Southern California area.

She was awarded first local prize in a nation-wide photographic contest, held under the auspices of the National Association of Department Store studios in 200 United States cities.

Marlene's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford G. Popp of 1117 South Garnsey street, Santa Ana. She was given first prize and a certificate of award, on a basis of good photography and personality.

SEEK SPIES ON PACIFIC COAST

volved for the seven suspected craft, federal officers asserted.

Meanwhile several destroyers prowled through Southern California waters in what navy officials sources continued to describe as "routine."

They "tailed" ships, including the Japanese freighter Kanai Maru, into Los Angeles harbor, the Coast Guard aiding.

At San Diego, the navy patrol has halted and investigated several fishing boats, although few of Japanese operation dock there.

It was reported here the Mexican government has ordered its gunboats to keep a close check on the activities of Japanese fishing boats off the coasts of Lower California and Sonora, following allegations that alien hydrographic experts are sounding and charting the waters.

California has approximately 1000 commercial fishing craft owned or manned by aliens, Japanese having about half this number.

Customs, immigration and coast guard officials, it was learned, have been checking on ownerships. Unofficial local observers surmised three factors in this "routine."

The navy is more than ever determined that no invader shall be able to slip by coast defenses under the guise of a peaceful errand.

A squadron of destroyers possibly may leave for Hawaii after the holidays in connection with a special phase of the fleet's 1938 problem.

Development of fast mobile units in a system of interlocking protection of the western seaboard, is being made.

ARMY TO CHECK ON L. A. WAR STATUS

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The ability and readiness of industrial Los Angeles to produce war materials in an emergency will be examined

OFFICER OF PANAY TELLS OF ATTACK

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The Panay's wounded commander reported officially today that the American gunboat was sunk without warning by Japanese naval planes, which he said flew as low as "perhaps one or two hundred feet" to drop their bombs.

Lieut. Commander James J. Hughes also said the Yangtze river craft was marked with huge flags when the attack occurred on Dec. 12. The weather was clear and there was "good visibility," he noted.

His report, giving the first official eye-witness account of the bombing that has strained relations with Japan, was made public by the navy department after having been read by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull.

SENT TO TOKYO
Its content already has been sent to Ambassador Grew at Tokyo to bolster the American demand for apologies, indemnities and guarantees.

Hughes related:
1. Three hours before the first unexpected aerial onslaught by two naval planes, the Panay was boarded by a Japanese army who vainly sought information on the movements of Chinese troops.

2. The first attack came without warning from two Japanese naval planes, which power-dived from an altitude of "about 4000 feet."

3. The Panay, marked by two horizontal American flags 18 by 14 feet freshly painted on her decks, was subjected to 56 minutes of intensive bombing and machine-gunning. The commander estimated the little ship must have received 24 direct hits.

HUGHES WOUNDED
4. Hughes, severely wounded by the first bomb explosion, said he was informed two small boats bearing wounded to the river bank were machine-gunned by the attacking planes.

5. Lying wounded on the shore after his sinking ship had been abandoned, he heard the rattle of machine guns and was informed that an armed Japanese boat was firing on the Panay.

6. Everyone aboard the gunboat, loaded with embassy officials and refugees from Nanking, 20 miles downstream, "acted with fine courage and initiative." Three men lost their lives.

Hughes said the Panay was conveying the Standard Oil river steamers Meiping, Melshina and Melan, and miscellaneous launches and junkies. He stressed the precautions taken to forestall any attack due to mistaken identity.

Support Haight For Governor

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Five Los Angeles residents headed by H. B. Keene have filed articles with the secretary of state incorporating "Haight for Governor incorporated."

Chief objective of the organization will be to support for governor Raymond L. Haight, Los Angeles lawyer, who ran third in the 1934 gubernatorial contest as a progressive-commonwealth candidate.

His supporters previously had reserved the trade mark "Haight in '38 Fusion Club."

by high ranking army officers and manufacturing executives at a banquet Jan. 5 to be attended by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war.

Earl B. Gilmore, oil executive, said Johnson was coming here especially to speak on "Industrial mobilization."

The banquet will be held by the Los Angeles post, Army Ordnance association, and the guests will include Maj. Gen. George S. Simonds, commanding officer of the ninth corps area; Brig. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commanding officer of the March field air base; Gen. Walter P. Story, Gov. Frank Merriam and city and county officials.

JAPAN TAKES BLAME FOR BOMBING

psychology" as the principal factor in the Japanese attack which sank the U. S. S. Panay in the Yangtze river.

"By that I do not want you to think I am offering what you call an alibi," the admiral said.

"I do not know how to apologize for this attack on an object representing the sovereignty of the United States."

Yonai reiterated that the Japanese government "will do everything possible" to satisfy the demands of the American government.

REVIEWS CASE
He reviewed the whole history of the incident from the standpoint of the Japanese navy, and concluded:

"The battlefield psychology, imperfect communication and poor visibility were the three facts responsible for the mistake."
Emperor Hirohito's convocation today of the 73rd session of the Japanese diet was marked by official optimism over expected amicable settlement of the Panay incident. The call followed disclosure of general orders that Japan's armed forces exercise extreme caution wherever foreign lives and property were imperiled.

Yonai said that notice that the Panay had moved 14 miles upstream from Nanking was not received at Japanese naval headquarters until four hours after the first bomb was dropped on the American gunboat.

"The visibility was poor, with smoke clouds mingling," the minister said. "The best evidence of this was the fact that the airmen bombed their own troops, killing several soldiers."

INVADERS TAKE HANGCHOW

to avoid bombing, shelling and street fighting.

The six Americans in Hangchow were believed to be safe.

Earlier tonight Japanese had reported encircling units within five miles of Hangchow and declared the Chinese defenders were cut off.

The Japanese spokesman also announced that a strong Japanese force had crossed the Yellow river in Shantung province, obtaining a foothold on its southern bank.

He did not state where the crossing was made, but indicated it was in the vicinity of Tsinan, provincial capital.

Since Japanese had declared at Tientsin that Chinese who had destroyed Japanese mills at Tsingtao, Shantung province seaport, would face "drastic punitive action," it was believed Japanese had begun a general Shantung offensive.

Three hundred Americans were ready to leave Tsingtao on three American warships in case of attack there.

Hangchow was the fifth of China's great cities to fall into the hands of invaders who already had hoisted the Rising Sun flag in Peiping, Tientsin, Shanghai and Nanking.

Girl Charges Man With Sex Crime

Accused by a Placentia girl of a sex crime against her, Frank Rodriguez, 18-year-old Placentia laborer was booked in county jail yesterday afternoon on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff E. R. Steinberger, arraigned before Justice of the Peace H. I. Spence in Fullerton, and his preliminary hearing set for Dec. 28. He was jailed in lieu of $1000 bail.

CHRISTMAS MEANS HOPE

Heartsong of the Hospital

By BOB GUILD

She wore a shapeless house dress and an old coat. She paced up and down the narrow hallway nervously, brushing each time she came near the door against the brilliant Christmas tree.

A hospital door crouched over everything.

At the switchboard a red-haired lad in a white coat pulled up into one hole after another: "Is Dr. Harvey there? Have you seen Dr. Harvey? Will you tell Dr. Harvey surgery is waiting? We have a call for Dr. —"

The woman sat in a straight-backed chair at the end of the hall, the baby lying quietly over her arm, its eyes closed. From time to time she bent over the child soundlessly.

"Is Dr. Harvey there?" the red-haired youth repeated. "Will you send Dr. Harvey up to —"

The mother sat perfectly straight in her chair, one hand nervously twitching at a corner of the baby's blanket. The father stood nearby, his overalls old and wrinkled, his shoes heavy with caked mud.

"Is Dr. Harvey there? Have you seen Dr. Harvey? Will you tell —"

Music floated into the hallway from the crisp night, a choir of mixed voices singing "Noel" from some far-off ward, and then through the muted sound crisp footsteps could be heard in the hall. The mother and the father both faced quickly toward the door. All this time they hadn't said a word.

As the doctor opened the door the music swelled briefly in, then faded again.

A quick glance indicated the mother and child. The red-haired one at the switchboard nodded. He moved to her, bent and lifted the baby in his arms, then turned toward a door at the rear of the hall.

The mother followed him quickly, her eyes still on the quiet child. The father took her chair. As the door closed the far-off music became a muted echo.

"The Christmas party," the red-haired youth before the switchboard said, "is in the T. B. ward."

Carols and presents, and a white-bearded Santa Claus, and a tiny organ, and bustling crowds of cheerful lookers-on. That was the party in the T. B. ward.

But the real Christmas party was in the hall of the hospital proper—where hope lighted the face of a haggard mother; where a tired father sat quietly, trusting in the goodness of someone he'd never seen before; where Christmas, and hope, and resurrection walked in on the quick incisive steps of a Doctor Harvey—it took perhaps four minutes, but there was the real Christmas party.

COURT RULE ASKED BY CRANSTON

Steps toward solving a long court battle here were taken today as J. A. Cranston, former superintendent of schools, petitioned superior court for instructions on guardianship of Mrs. Sophie Girardelly, incompetent.

Cranston asked Superior Judge G. K. Scovel whether or not he should turn over to another guardian assets of the estate, subject of controversy for the past year.

Emil Valentine, a brother in Iowa, has been appointed guardian in that state, where Mrs. Girardelly now resides, Cranston said in his petition. The former school superintendent says he has refused to turn over assets of the estate to Valentine pending instructions from Judge Scovel.

Cranston recently was ordered to deposit $300 in a bank account as guardian, after a series of hearings on a petition for his removal had climaxed with testimony that funds of the estate had been deposited in Cranston's own bank account. The deposit was made, and Judge Scovel ordered continuance of the hearings pending results of guardianship proceedings in Iowa.

Loyalty Worth Riches
By DALE CARNEGIE

An old French proverb, quoted in the 15th Century, reads in its translation, "Loyalty is worth more than riches." Well, human nature hasn't undergone any radical changes in the past five hundred years. Rich people every day show their appreciation of someone who has been loyal to them.

I don't think anyone would accuse the late Frank A. Munsey, newspaper and magazine publisher of being a sentimentalist. But cold as his nature was, he was tremendously loyal to those who had believed in him in the early days of his career. As a young man, he was tall and gawky and the neighborhood girls made him feel it. That is, all but one. Up there in Augusta, Maine, there lived a girl by the name of Annie Downs. Annie was kind to Frank; she thought it horrid of the girls to make fun of him over such a trivial thing as awkwardness. She stuck up for him and to a great degree stilled the ridicule. After Munsey established his fortune, he settled the amount of two thousand dollars a year on her. This settlement was not a matter of sentiment; Annie was married and had children. It was purely an expression of appreciation of her loyalty.

Some weeks ago a young man of 27 became a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and apparently without the cost of a penny. Think of it. A membership for which many an older and more experienced person has had to pay a hundred thousand dollars. This young man, William J. Denman, of Woodbridge, N. J., was made a partner in his twenties by his former employer. Why? His employer gives us the answer: "Because of his loyalty to the exchange, his application to his work and his outstanding merit as an employee." And you will note that loyalty was mentioned first.

When Marie Dressler died, it is said she had forty persons on her pension list — and every one of them somebody who had believed in her and stuck by her during her early struggles.

Hunger is one of our greatest inspirations. The element of hunger has probably created more geniuses than any other one thing. No doubt those pretzels that Pat O'Brien subsisted on for days at a time, before he became the successful moving picture star of today, left a gnawing feeling which urged Pat on to success.

In England, people are fined for scattering debris in the parks and for destroying public property. In nearly all civilized foreign countries penalties are meted out to those who do damage to the property of others. Now I know why our parks are so much less attractive than parks in other big cities; we don't really do anything about it.

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

BUILDING AT BEACH SETS NEW MARK

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—According to figures given out yesterday morning by City Engineer Harry Overmyer, 1937 building permits are three times the amount recorded in 1936.

During the year up to Dec. 21, $311,227.50 in new buildings had been finished or authorized. In 1936 the total was $130,567.

The month of December totaled $162,780 to date which is the sum of the $100,000 manual arts building under construction at the high school, the $50,000 beach pavilion, $7500 recreation building in Lake Park, and M. M. McCallen's $5000 Southern California Water company office on Main street. The total for December, 1936, was only $58,419.

MIDWAY CORPS HAS ELECTION

MIDWAY CITY.—Annual election of officers marked the December meeting of the Woman's Relief corps Monday evening in the Woman's clubhouse.

Mrs. Daisy La Dew was named president; Mrs. Estelle Arnett, senior vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Folger, junior vice-president; Mrs. Affie Pullen, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Ann Knox, chaplain; Mrs. A. G. Grief, guard; and Mrs. Nellie Morgan, conductor. Mrs. Alma Best was elected delegate to the department convention to be held at Santa Monica next May, and Mrs. Arnette alternate.

Plans were made for gift baskets to be presented to several families during the holiday season as part of the Christmas cheer annually extended by members of the corps.

BOWEN PLANS H. B. BUILDING

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Work is scheduled to begin Jan. 1 on construction of a new store building, it was announced by S. R. Bowen yesterday morning. The site of the building will be on his property at Main and Walnut streets.

Plans for the structure, which are now in possession of Shilling and Shilling, Long Beach architects, show it to be a one-story building, occupying a space 27 by 75 feet in area. It will be the new home for Gordon Ethington's drug store.

Catholics Plan Yule Ceremony

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The Catholic church will celebrate the Feast of the Nativity on Christmas morning.

Three masses at 7 a. m., 8:30 a. m., and 10 a. m. will be conducted. A high mass will be at 10 o'clock which will be preceded by a procession and the choir will sing "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Holy Night." Music for this special feast will be in charge of Mrs. Kelly.

MIDWAY CIVIC PROJECT ENDS

MIDWAY CITY.—Plans for improvement of Midway City outlined last fall by chamber of commerce members, were completed last week, according to a report made by Secretary E. L. Kirsham at the regular meeting of that body Monday night.

Streets have been resurfaced, vacant lots cleaned, signposts erected at street intersections and new street lights placed in the eastern section, he said.

A proposition submitted by the Associated telephone company of Huntington Beach regarding the toll charge was read and members voted to join with Westminster in calling a mass meeting of subscribers to take action on the matter soon.

CHAPMAN NEW Y.M.C.A. HEAD

FULLERTON.—Irvin Chapman is new chairman of the Fullerton Y. M. C. A., named at a meeting of reorganization this week. With Dr. Charles Rapp, the new chairman will represent the Fullerton council on the North Orange county Y. M. C. A. board.

Other new Fullerton board members include William Montague as vice chairman; Arch Raitt, re-named secretary; and Lee O'Kelly, treasurer.

Secretary Raitt has been in charge of the North Orange county work for many years. Of the 39 clubs of Y. M. C. A. boys and young men, 12 are in Fullerton. Nearly 800 boys are enrolled in the clubs of the north county.

W. M. Sipherd Is Feted at Party

SILVER ACRES.—The recent birthday anniversary of W. M. Sipherd was the occasion of a family party, planned as a surprise to the honor guest.

Taking part in the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sipherd, Orange, and their guest, Margaret Mills of Liberty Center, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sipherd and Shirley Mae Sipherd, Lancaster, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sipherd.

News About El Toro Folks

By MRS. CARRIE G. DREWS
The El Toro hall was packed Friday evening with children and grownups, all enjoying the school program, jolly Old Saint Nick and the Christmas tree, loaded with gifts, candy and red apples.

About 5000 people attended the gas-model airplane contest in Los Angeles last Sunday, which proved to be very exciting. Many crackups occurred, as also the most flights, when 230 airplane models were allowed two official flights apiece, and were entered by young and old. The prizes were $50, $20, $10, and merchandise. Bill Drews of El Toro brought home merchandise, and Ed Cox of Irvine received an order for "hot dogs and hamburgers with mustard, pop corn, peanuts, ice cream and ice cold drinks."

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bennett enjoyed a trip to Arizona last week, spending three days with friends in Kingman and Oatman. Their daughter, Beverly, is home from Pomona college for the holidays.

John Osterman's old El Toro friends and neighbors are glad to hear that he is showing signs of recovery, and truly hope for his full recovery, in the very near future.

STANTON CLUB FETES CHILDREN

STANTON.—Sunshine 'n' Shower club members entertained children of the community at a Christmas party Saturday night. The affair was held in the community hall with 40 children present to enjoy the tree and receive gifts from Santa Claus, impersonated by Richard Yater.

Mrs. Elbert Jones was in charge of the entertainment features, assisted by Mrs. Robert Cligk, Mrs. Ennis Sayre and Mrs. Eve O'Donnell.

Club members present included Mr. and Mrs. Will Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hasell, Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. William Pesterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moolick, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carr, Mrs. Nellie Benson, Lee Benson, Mr. and Mrs. John Maloney, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Evans, Mr. and Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Ella Laughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard, Mr. and Mrs. S. THE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

By DONALD BUTTON
"Tis the night before Christmas!"

And the whole house sits rather silent upon learning Santa (Federal Project of Art to you) is positively skipping his visit to Santa Ana!

"For," says Joseph Danysh, "it has been decided from the point of view of national policy to discontinue print-lending libraries. I have therefore issued instructions to discontinue those lending libraries now in existence."

In view of the dearth of Federal Project of Art allocations within Santa Ana, it had been hoped that we might have even a very small print-lending library for the interest it would stimulate here in arts and crafts.

I know it for a fact that many people are extremely doubtful as to having pictures, and what pictures, in their homes.

That they should have started wondering about it is commendable. That they should be lacking in direction, for the most part, is deplorable.

The library exhibitions were started with the intention of reviewing current trends in expression. They have not represented the opinion of any one person, nor has it been held (altogether) they were the finest things obtainable.

They have, however, given an indication as to what was available, as well as allowing opportunity for judging for one's self, whether he should want to live with the painting, or drawing, shown.

Had they been augmented by a permanent lending collection of prints, their (the exhibitions) influence upon the community could have been much greater.

We were somewhat fortunate in not having gotten to the stage of "having."

Solano County Library fares worse than we, for they had just gotten their project under way.

Prints were being circulated in this rather isolated section in the north of the state, with the books available through the state library. These prints were reaching homes that had not previously known more than the cover torn off a magazine, and they were surely stimulating, and generating, an interest that was worth while.

To me, "point of view of national policy" could well mean—pressure from the picture business.

I can see where this print-lending policy could look to be a direct invasion upon the commercial print field. It does not seem it could do other than create a demand for possession.

Federal prints, from the very nature of their origin, are not available for private purchase. It is to be hoped "... these instructions are rescinded" in the very near future.

"Tis still the night before Christmas, 1937—
And rather a pleasant time to recall the generous giving along cultural lines that has marked 1937—

There have been the presentation of the Mellon collection in Washington, the Julius Bache collection in New York—both being permanently available to the public. Most museums have had generous contributions to their collections, and there has been an increasing public consciousness of what was available.

Millard Sheets brought the West coast its greatest (to date) showing of contemporary painting, even though it was at a county fair!

The Los Angeles Art association has, in the exhibition just closed, given an indication of what might be publicly available in this area (for many of the pictures shown are in line for giving) were proper facilities at hand.

Locally, several of the exhibitions seen at the library were "firsts," either as to material, one-man shows, or area.

Significant "giving" found its best expression in the work of Milford Zornes, Dan Dickey, Ivan Barlett and Jean Swiggett, the Federal Project Lithographers.

And Donald Forbes. Truly, it has been a year, and not a season, rich in giving.

... an angel shape Bearing a vessel on his shoulder

Every one knows Omar Khayyam's famous words:

"A Book of Verses underneath the Bough,

A Jug of Wine, a Loaf of Bread—and Thou—

But do you know, too, that every page of the Rubaiyat sings with beauty, from the glorious first lines describing the dawn:

"Wake! For the Sun, who scatter'd into flight

The Stars before him from the Field of Night—"

To that final echo of a lover's age-old cry:

"Ah Love! could you and I with Him conspire,

To grasp this sorry Scheme of Things entire,

Would not you shatter it to bits—

—and then—
Re-mould it nearer to the Heart's Desire!"

What beautiful passages where the poet sees "shining through the Dusk an Angel shape" or paints vivid word pictures like "that inverted Bowl they call the Sky!"

Add this immortal poem to your library. Our 32-page booklet gives fascinating biography of Omar Khayyam. Complete translation of the 101 verses of the Rubaiyat. Beautifully illustrated. A perfect gift.

Send 10c for your copy of The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam to The Journal, Home Service, 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

CHAPTER 25

John Talcott was more than satisfied with Alan. He much preferred him to Dodge Roland. Alan had poise, good manners, two qualities which Roland lacked. He had landed this situation of making good Howard's loss admirably. Talcott admitted to himself, and not too reluctantly at that, that the boy had managed things better than he could have.

The quiet little speech he had made to Howard—not too much palaver, the convincing way he spoke, the way he turned the note over to him.

He was proud of Alan, proud to be with him. The boy would go far—with good sound advice. A head on him better than Roland's, and a heart in him, too. What Roland lacked—a heart. He beamed over at him, and he beamed at Howard, who was holding the note in his hands, and he beamed at Howard's secretary, whose name he had not caught.

Alan's gesture was a magnificent one—Howard should realize that—and Talcott had been in favor of it from the first time Jory mentioned it to him, which had been this afternoon.

NOTE DISCOUNTED

"You understand, Mr. Howard," Talcott took matters into his own hands, "that we should prefer not to have the note discounted. We should prefer to have you hold it until the estate is settled. There will be some delay, of course—there always is a delay where violent death is concerned."

"But later the note will be payable in full with the interest. I handled personally today the sale of Dodge Roland's light bulb invention to the Consolidated Laboratories for the sum of $5,000,000 cash—the deal that was pending at the death of Roland. The cash is in the bank, credited to the estate, but it will have to remain there until the estate is probated."

"This does not include money on hand when Roland died, and two trust funds he had, or any of the real estate he owned. It may take several years to get the estate in shape—depends on the disposition made in regard to Nancy Roland. If she is freed she will be entitled to half of the inheritance."

"If she is guilty—well, she will get nothing, naturally, under the California law. It looks to all of us at present that she will get nothing."

"Have you heard anything today?" Howard asked. He was folding the bit of paper, creasing it deeply.

"Nothing," Talcott returned, "however, you are in a better position to hear than we are. I understand you are keeping in close touch with Captain Wyman's office."

"Wyman's still north. And from what Cameron, his assistant, says, there's nothing new. Nobody knows where Nancy is. For my part, I've felt all along that the tip police had that she was in San Francisco was false."

NOTHING TO GAIN

Alan spoke. "There was the gas station attendant, Gus Nobles. He positively identified her from pictures. He had nothing to gain, and nothing to lose, by his identification."

Bob Blair had to force himself to stay in his chair. What he wanted to do was to rush over to Julian, grab the paper out of his hand. A few minutes and it would be fit for the wastebasket.

The note was folded now so that it was only an inch square. He didn't move, however, he sat watching Julian's hands, hoping and hoping that Talcott and Jory would get out soon.

They did, and when Blair had closed the door after them, he exploded.

"That's money, Julian! Money! Don't you realize it? That's $30,000 plus, 6 per cent interest, and you're almost mutilated it. And you're twisting it, and folding it, and it's fit for the wastebasket now!"

Howard looked at the little square of paper in his hands. "So it is—money. Why did he do it, Bob?"

SMOOTHING IT

"Why did he do it?" Bob had taken the paper from Howard, and was spreading it out on the table, smoothing it with his finger tips.

"Why did Jory give it to me?"

"Fine of him, I think." The paper was in order once more, but the creases showed deep in it when Bob put it in his billfold. "Nancy runs out on you and Jory makes your $30,000 good—plus interest, remember."

"Seems to me he was in a hurry to give it to me. He might have promised it, and then after the trial—if and when Nancy is found—he could have given me the note. I don't like this haste."

"I suppose you don't want to take the money!"

"I was thinking about refusing it—and then I thought of what you would say, so I accepted it—with reservations. I didn't state my reservations to our guests and donors, but I made a note of them mentally."

"We shall hold the note, Bob, and take good care of it. There was no need to present it so soon, and there was no need of the little speech Alan made to me. I don't like speeches, especially patronizing ones."

"But he wasn't patronizing! You're imagining that. I thought he was fine."

THE SPEECH

"You were thinking of the money, Robert, and I was thinking not of the money, but the speech—and Alan."

"You're crazy. The speech was no speech at all—as speeches go. It was a simple statement of how Alan felt about you losing thirty thousand dollars on account of Nancy."

"He needn't have come here with his thirty thousand dollar note, bearing as you have reminded me several times six per cent interest. He could have sent it to me, by messenger, or mailed it to me, or asked me to come down to Talcott's office to get it. He came here because he wanted to make that speech. He'd learned it by heart."

"Nonsense—you don't like him, that's all."

"I quite admit it, Robert. I don't like him. I never have liked him from the first time I saw him in Wyman's office. I think that's why

I put up the ball for Nancy in the first place—only I just realized it tonight."

"Anyway we have lost nothing. The note is as good as money. Ready to was down to dinner?"

But Howard made no move to leave the table. He had taken up another paper, a leaf from a notebook, and was folding it and unfolding it much as he had done the note Alan had given him.

Bob knew the symptoms, and he also knew that Howard was liable to be busy with whatever thoughts he had for some time to come, so he phoned the desk, and ordered dinner for the two of them.

That was the easiest way. If Julian wanted to eat after it came, all right. If he didn't he could go on with his thinking. Bob was hungry.

STILL THINKING

"Why did he do it?" Howard said aloud after a while.

That was still thinking of Jerry, and the note. Bob sighed. He had hoped that Howard might be getting an idea for a story—so that they could start to work.

He made such a ceremony of it. Bringing Talcott in.

"Listen, Julian. Talcott probably wanted to come. Lawyers often accompany their clients, you know. You had lawyers with you when you signed contracts with your publishers, and with Bromley's."

"Jory called if you remember at five and I talked to him. He told me he had talked to him. He told me he and Talcott were coming at six."

"Yes, but he didn't tell you what he wanted."

The waiter came in with a large tray, and before he was out of the suite, Bob was sitting down to eat. Howard looked at the table and then looked away. He wasn't interested in food at the moment.

FORGET JORY

"Why don't you forget Jory?" Bob cut into his steak. "You're reading into his actions much more than he meant—but you always do that with anybody. Surely you couldn't have been thinking of him all afternoon, too."

"No, I wasn't thinking of him all afternoon. I was thinking of this Gus Nobles up north. Strange that Alan Jory should mention him, too, tonight."

"Your steak will be getting cold. And it's good, best we've had here."

a real treat. Why were you thinking about Gus Nobles?"

"I've been thinking of Gus Nobles for a good while, Robert. Since he identified Nancy—and what he said she asked him."

"Well, what's strange about that?"

"She asked him whether he had a telephone, if you remember. A telephone."

THAT'S NOT STRANGE

"I don't think that's so funny, or so strange. Anybody's got a right to ask for a telephone."

"But why should she want to telephone if she ran away—skipped out as you have reminded me so many times. Why?"

"I'm sure I don't know. It isn't important anyway."

"But it is important—" Howard looked at the door. The bell had rung once, a short quick ring.

"Visitors, Bob. I'm not at home."

Bob got up slowly and while he was ambling to the door the bell rang again.

Nancy brushed past him into the room.

ALABAMA ARRIVES IN PASADENA

TIDE SLATES LIGHT DRILL ON OXY TURF

By ROBERT MYERS
PASADENA. (P)—Alabama pitched its colors of crimson on the Rose Bowl battle front today and settled back to await the challenge of California's mighty Golden Bears.

Throngs of 'Bama supporters gathered at the railroad station long before the Crimson Tide special shuffled in from the South, and a warm welcome was ready for the lads from Dixie.

The 14-car special, bringing Alabama's fifth entry into Pasadena's annual gridiron classic, was split up at suburban Alhambra, and the Red Regiment came directly into town. The rest of the train, with its delegation of rooters, moved on into Los Angeles.

Word from Berkeley said the Bears planned one more workout today before knocking off for a week-end holiday, and that Head Coach Leonard (Stub) Allison would reassemble the team here Monday morning.

Chief concern of the Alabama welcoming committee was the condition of the team, particularly 200-pound Capt. Leroy Monsky, the Tide's all-America guard.

Monsky collided head-on with Lewis (Pete) Bostick, another lineman, during a practice drill at San Antonio, Tex., and fear was expressed that he wouldn't be able to indulge in any heavy work until the day of the game.

Leading the Tide into Pasadena was Coach Frank Thomas, hopeful of ringing up his second straight victory in the Bowl. It was Thomas who brought that red-shirted team into the Bowl Jan. 1, 1935, which quelled Stanford, 29 to 13, in a thrilling game as ever played here.

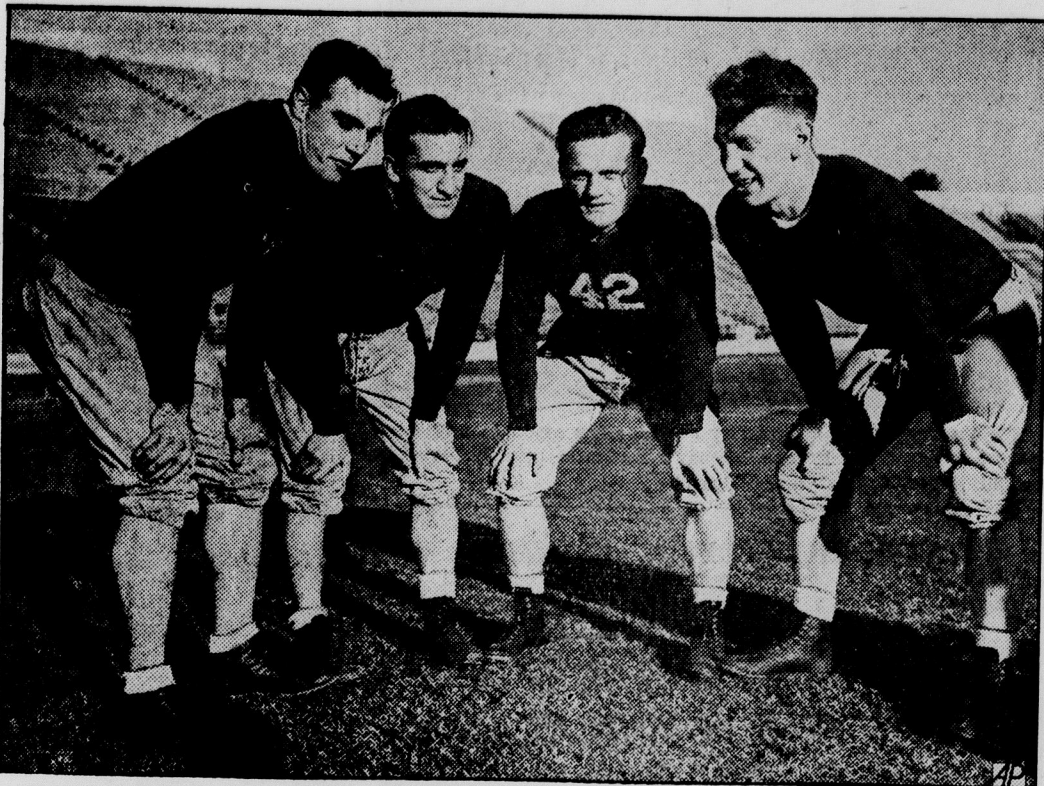

Thomas called the first workout—one arranged for the special benefit of newspaper and newsreel cameramen—for 2:30 this afternoon. Alabama will use the stadium at near-by Occidental college for the drill.

Riding into Pasadena with the squad was one of the greatest stars ever to shine in the Rose Bowl—Johnny Mack Brown. Brown was the factor in Alabama's victory over Washington in 1925. Now a Hollywood screen actor, he met the squad at Tucson, Ariz., yesterday.

Waner Heralds Medwick as Hornsby Equal
SARASOTA, Fla. (P)—Paul Waner, a past master himself at the art of getting base hits, expressed belief today that Joe Medwick will become the greatest right-hand batter in baseball's history.

The Pirate outfielder, who lost the National league batting crown to Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals last season, said even the loop's new "dead ball" won't

They'll Carry the Mail for West's All-Stars

Here is a tentative backfield on the West's all-star team as the squad assembled for a first practice in San Francisco for the New Year's day Shrine charity game against the East's all-stars. Left to right: Carl Littlefield, Washington State; Milton Popovich, Montana; George Karamatic, Gonzaga; and Joe Gray, Oregon State.

West's Eleven Will Carry Edge in Passing, Punting

SAN FRANCISCO. (P)—The West will have an edge in the passing and kicking department in the Shrine charity East-West football game here New Year's day, Coach Orin (Babe) Hollingbery of the Western All-Stars believes.

Hollingbery, mentor at Washington State college, said Fullbacks Milt Popovich of Montana and George Karamatic of Gonzaga probably will do most of the kicking for the West and Dwight Sloan of Arkansas and Popovich will be the best passers.

"We've got everything we need," said Hollingbery, as he and Coach Lawrence (Biff) Jones of Nebraska set up practice camp at Stanford university, 30 miles south of here, and directed the first stiff workout despite rain.

"This Popovich alone is liable to steal the show with the support he'll get in this game," he said. "He is as fine a passer and kicker as we've had in the West."

Sloan was at quarterback and Karamatic held down the fullback position with Elmer Kolberg of Oregon State at left half and Hugh Wolfe, Texas, right half, in one experimental backfield.

MIAMI, Fla. (P)—The winter circuit par-busters had a pair of champions to catch today as they moved into the second round of the south's oldest golf fixture, the fourteenth annual $2500 Miami Open.

Ralph Guldahl, United States Open champion, posted a sparkling three-under-par 67 yesterday and then Stanley Horne of Ottawa—unheralded despite his Canadian P. G. A. title—did the same thing.

Close on their heels today were the ever-dangerous Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and young Frank Champ of Terre Haute, Ind., each with a 68. Bunched back of them were 41 others with scores of 72 or better, within five strokes of the leaders and still very much in the running.

"I saw Rogers Hornsby play several seasons and always figured he was the greatest batter that ever lived," commented Waner, who stands at the left side of the plate.

"That is, until Medwick came along. Right now, I believe he is Hornsby's equal and with many years to go should surpass the 'Rajah.'"

"How about Joe Di Maggio?" Waner was asked.
"I've seen the Yankee sensation only in all-star and exhibition games and really don't know so much about him, but I think Medwick is a far better hitter," he replied.

TWO NEW FILMS OPEN SATURDAY

Two new releases of high entertainment value, will open tomorrow at the Broadway theater on Christmas day, it was announced today by Manager George King, who said continuous shows will be stages starting at 1 p. m.

The features are "True Confession" and "Daughter of Shanghai." Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray are joined by John Barrymore in the co-starring leads of the comedy-drama, "True Confession." In the film, Miss Lombard and MacMurray play the parts of a struggling young lawyer and his wife, constantly at swords'ends because of the conflict between Miss Lombard's inborn habit of lying and MacMurray's love for truth.

Implicated by circumstantial evidence, Miss Lombard finds herself accused of a murder, of which she is entirely innocent. MacMurray does not believe her story, and forces her to "confess" that she killed in self-defense. On this plea, he gets Miss Lombard an acquittal. But Barrymore steps into the scene in the role of an eccentric derelict whose brother-in-law actually committed the murder, and who tries to blackmail the girl. The film winds up with the most hilarious combination of comedy elements to reach the screen in a long while, with Miss Lombard finally realizing that lies don't pay.

A daring story of the alien smuggling racket brings Anna May Wong and a brilliant cast of supporting players to the screen in "Daughter of Shanghai." The title role is played by Miss Wong, daughter of a wealthy San Francisco merchant who undertakes to run the smuggling band to earth when her father is murdered for refusing to take part in the band's scheme to smuggle aliens into this country. In this she also is assisted by Philip Ann, noted Chinese actor, whose part is that of the secret agent.

Selected short subjects include a color cartoon, "September in the Rain," and World News events.

Second Christmas In 'Iron Lung'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Fred B. Snite, jr., of Chicago, who has been confined to a metal lung for two years, read through a stack of hundreds of Christmas cards from all over the world today.

The cheerful infantile paralysis victim has sent out his own cards. They show a gay drawing of himself grinning from his respirator, plastered with travel stickers and a Notre Dame pennant.

Snite traveled from China in the lung, and this will be his second Christmas in the machine.

In West Coast Musical

Golden-voiced Nelson Eddy is shown above with the most famous of all tap-dancers, Eleanor Powell, in a scene from their co-starring musical hit, "Rosalie," which is the current attraction at the West Coast theater, along with a second attraction, "Thank You, Mr. Moto," thrilling Oriental smuggling drama starring Peter Lorre.

At Broadway Saturday

FAMOUS PAIR IN COMEDY

A side-splitting laugh treat is in store for moviegoers who see the film "Double Wedding" at Walker's theater Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, co-starring those perennial favorites, William Powell and Myrna Loy. On the same bill is "Stage Door."

Based on the continental stage success, "Great Love," by Ferenc Molnar, the new romantic comedy tells the story of four people—Charlie, a penniless but happy-go-lucky artist who makes his home in a trailer; Margit, owner of a fashionable New York gown shop; Irene, her sister with yearnings to be a movie star, and Waldo, Irene's half-hearted suitor.

Unfettered ambition is a hard taskmaster, those imbued with it, and who attain the dizzy heights of success, frequently envy those who are satisfied with their lot and spared the responsibilities of achievement.

Such is the premise upon which is built the powerful story of "Stage Door," RKO Radio picture co-starring Katharine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou.

"The Night Before Christmas," a novelty, will be shown in connection with the aforementioned pictures.

'ROSALIE' AT WEST COAST

Cole Porter has put rhythm into the army, swing into Vassar and a few hot licks into Europe. In other words, he wrote the music for the first international musical, "Rosalie," which has been lavishly produced with Eleanor Powell and Nelson Eddy in the starring roles. The spectacular film is the current attraction at the West Coast theater.

Porter wrote eight songs for the new extravaganza, which is said to set a new record, in that he wrote lyrics as well as music. The film includes West Point, exclusive Vassar and a continental kingdom in its backgrounds. The title song, "Rosalie," is sung by golden-voiced Eddy as he stands outside the Vassar dormitory, singing to his love. He also sings to Miss Powell in a garden sequence and woos her with the ballad, "In the Still of the Night."

The new continental discovery, Ilona Massey, makes her American screen singing debut with "Spring Love Is in the Air." Miss Powell and the Vassar girls do a bedroom sequence to the strains of "I've a Strange New Rhythm in My Heart." "Who Knows?" is another song by Eddy, while Frank Morgan makes his singing debut with "Why Should I Care?" The entire picture is said to be one of the most colorful and romantic in years.

MAY ROBSON IN MELODRAMA

With the theft of the world-famous "Mona Bella" of Rembrandt as motivating themes, Columbia's "Woman in Distress," a fast-paced comedy-melodrama featuring May Robson, Irene Hervey and Dean Jagger, will open its local run at the State theater Sunday, continuing through Tuesday, "I Cover the War" will be a co-feature.

Supporting the three leads is an exceptionally strong cast including Douglas Dumbrille, George McKay, Gene Morgan, Arthur Loft, Charles Wilson and Paul Fix. The daring robbery of the Rembrandt painting from the modest Maine home of Miss Robson sets in motion a series of exciting escapades which culminate in a hair-raising climax.

Dramatically presenting a little-known chapter out of current history, "I Cover the War" is a vivid, fast-moving saga of an American newsreel cameraman sent on a dangerous mission to the desert battlefields of Mesopotamia.

With John Wayne playing the starring role, the picture moves to a smashing climax in some of the most spectacular battle scenes ever filmed, scenes depicting the gallant stand of a column of British legionnaires against an overwhelming horde of Arab rebels. "Christmas Comes Once a Year" and "Jungle Menace" are shorts to be played at the same showing.

MUNI FILM TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Closing one of the longest and most successful runs in the history of the Broadway theater, "The Life of Emile Zola" will show for the last time tonight with Paul Muni in the name part at the head of a great cast.

The immortal French novelist Zola reaches the screen for the first time in "The Life of Emile Zola," an immense production by Warner Bros. There is strong temptation to compare this picture with the one that gathered for Muni last year the Motion Picture Academy award for the best performance by an actor for 1936, "The Story of Louis Pasteur."

Second attraction on the closing bill is "Lancer Spy," which depicts the boldest venture a British secret agent ever faced impersonating an officer in the German high command, forced to gamble on the love of a woman whose business was betrayal, with the opportunity to strike the deadliest blow of the great war if he lived. The cast in the thrilling espionage drama includes Dolores Del Rio, George Sanders and Peter Loore.

'Double Wedding' at Walker's

William Powell and Myrna Loy are together again in a hilarious laugh treat based on Ferenc Molnar's romantic comedy. On the same bill at Walker's is "Stage Door."

"Woman in Distress" at State

Theft of a famous Rembrandt painting is the theme for this fast-moving combination of laughter and thrills featuring the inimitable May Robson. The supporting cast includes Irene Hervey and Dean Jagger.

I JUST FOUND OUT— 22,000 Christmas Trees in County

By MILLARD BROWNE

When hustling and bustling of last-minute shopping has finished tonight, more than 22,000 Orange county families will convene in gay little groups around that many Christmas trees—some decorated and ready for gift-opening ceremonies, others still to be adorned with symbolic gestures.

The trees will range from two feet to 15 or 20 feet in height, more of them will be sprayed blue or aluminum than ever before, and they will have cost, depending on size and whether the tree is balsam, pine or fir.

Here are pertinent facts about this year's average Orange county Christmas tree: It will be about 5 feet 6 inches high, will be a Rocky mountain balsam which came from Montana, cost about $2. It will be adorned with around 143 electric lights, all the same color and made in the United States, and also will display yards of tinsel, metallic rain, may be some shredded cellophane, and one or two dozen glass balls.

Topping off the composite Christmas tree will be some sort of star-shaped gadget, probably lighted. There probably will be no popcorn strings or candy-filled stockings on the tree itself, and the gifts will be bundled at the base, not tied to the limbs. Total cost of the average trimmed tree: about $7.

Of course, there will be variations—lots of them. Dime stores, for instance, are reporting brisk sales of candy canes for tree-hanging purposes, and there are lots of families who insist on remaining old-fashioned on Christmas, string popcorn for tree decorations, and scatter presents all over the tree. This year's trend, however, is toward simple, attractive tree decorations, according to a consensus of the dealers who sell such fixings.

Most Christmas trees this year are being bought from grocers, who get them from wholesalers, which in turn import them from Washington and Montana. Florists report better business in fancier trees from the high Sierras, however.

The Montana trees are balsams, those from Washington are pines and firs, and the California-grown products are silver-tipped, white and red firs, all gathered from the Tahoe region and shipped here in boxes. Total Christmas tree shipment to Orange county was about six carloads.

Fad-of-the-year in Christmas trees: Spraying them, either blue or aluminum. This service adds from 50 cents to $2 to the price of the tree which runs from 15 cents to $5 on Washington and Montana trees, from 50 cents to $1 a foot on specially-handled California trees, which must be taken from over 5000-foot elevations, are frequently cut in two feet of snow and carried to the railroad by dog-sled.

Nearly all Christmas trees in Orange county will be lighted by electricity, not over a dozen by candles, which is one old-fashioned tradition nearly all celebrators have been talked out of because of the fire hazard.

Canal Strike Continues

EL CENTRO. (AP)—Picketing continued today on the All-American canal at Pilot Knob, although half of 80 strikers, Sheriff R. W. Ware reported, have returned to work.

The walkout was called after a contractor refused demands of union steel and cement workers for a closed shop.

MOVIE STAR'S NAMESAKE
ARLINGTON, Neb. (AP)—Arlington residents have presented a new claim to distinction—that the town is the namesake of Arlington, better known to moviegoers as Robert Taylor. Taylor's father lived here as a youth, they point out, and liked the town so well he named his son after it, although residing elsewhere at the time of the boy's birth.

CHRISTMAS COMES TO COUNTY HOSPITAL

GIFTS, MUSIC BROUGHT TO PATIENTSChurches, Clubs
Combine in Yule Party

Christmas came to Orange county hospital last night.

From ward to ward the holiday spirit spread—to the little girls and boys, the men and women, and the old—to the tune of carols by the Federal Music Project choir, and accompanied by gifts from more than 25 Orange county organizations.

Radios, fruit, candy, toys, cakes, warm clothing and comforts of all kinds descended on patients in a veritable shower.

A little girl cried at the sight of Santa Claus (she'd never seen him before), and an older girl held a sprig of mistletoe over her head when he came near.

And when it was over there were gifts of every shape and kind, in every direction, for everyone.

Almost 275 hospital patients were remembered this year, and a list of the Santa Clauses reads like a club and churchman's "who's who" of Orange county.

The Elks clubs of Orange, Santa Ana and Anaheim donated three radios. The Santa Ana Elks sent a Santa Claus. WPA sent the music.

And from these organizations came everything from a pair of socks to a box of apples.

Congregational church, junior section; Woman's club of Corona Del Mar; Orange County Christian endeavor; First Baptist church; Silverado canyon, Wilson, Lathrop, Garden Grove, Washington, Newport, Brea, ch. schools; Costa Mesa Women's club and Friday Afternoon club; First Presbyterian church; Delta Chi Sigma; Camp Fire Girls; First Methodist church; Church of the Brethren; Y. W. C. A.; Women's branch, Edison company; Girl Scouts and Junior Red Cross.

MAE IS BANNED
IN BROADCASTS

NEW YORK. (AP)—The National Broadcasting company has banned the use of Mae West's name in scripts broadcast by any of its managed or operated stations. The ban is effective immediately.

The rule would be applied also to any network broadcasts coming from the studios of these stations, which include the network keys, WPAF and WJZ, New York. The action was taken, it was explained, to avoid the use of her name in "gags" or the like, and came about as a result of her broadcast two Sundays ago.

An "Adam and Eve" comedy sketch in that broadcast met with listener protests over the propriety of the script.

Football Star To Take Screen Test

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Carl Hinkle, center on the Vanderbilt football team will take a screen test during the holidays.

He plans to leave by air either Christmas night or Sunday for the West Coast, returning in time for classes Jan. 3. A production company is sponsoring the test.

SANTA WHITE FOX
BY SIGRID ARNE

SHE COULD HARDLY WAIT TO HEAR THE FAIRY QUEEN'S PLAN

CHAPTER 23
THE FAIRY QUEEN'S SECRET

Santa was so pleased when he saw the sailor's ice-boat swing up to his door he dumped two bags of dolls he was carrying and rushed to the boat shouting:

"So you escaped the fox! I told Mrs. Santa you would. Come in."

He picked up the sailor and Helga in one hand, and the Fairy Queen in his other, and rushed into the top shop. Mrs. Santa came running from the kitchen wiping her hands.

"Look, Santa, what the sailor brought you," said Helga. The sailor pulled that pretty silver acorn and the silver chain from his pocket, and said, "Santa, this is a present from the squirrel village that lies west of here in the woods."

"My gracious! For me?" said Santa. He was so pleased he snapped the chain right onto his big watch and went to look at himself in the mirror.

NEW FAIRIES

When he turned around the Fairy Queen said, "Santa, I have a plan for Helga and the sailor. I guess you know they don't want to go down to the world as gifts," she said.

Santa chuckled. "Indeed I do. I don't know how I came to make such dolls."

"You also know they both like the sea," said the Fairy Queen. "Even Helga has become a sailor."

"You don't say," chuckled Santa and he gently tugged one of her curls. "This little thing?"

Helga looked so excited. She could hardly wait to hear the Fairy Queen's plan.

"This is my plan," said the Queen. "You know that on stormy nights I send people from my kingdom to ride the ships of good men and bring them safely through to port."

"Yes, and it's a fine, kind work," said Santa.

"Well, I should like to take Helga and the sailor into my kingdom to do just that," said the Queen.

"We'd love it," chorused Helga and the sailor. "Santa, may we go?"

"Will you come and see me sometimes, and tell me stories of your adventures?" said Santa.

"Certainly," chorused Helga and the sailor.

"Well, then, you belong to the

ICKES RENEWS DRILL PERMITS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The Wyoming congressional delegation was advised today Secretary Ickes had extended until Dec. 31, 1938, all gas and oil drilling permits outstanding Dec. 31.

His order was authorized by a bill by Senator O'Mahoney and representative Grever which congress passed last August.

The order covered all permits not previously extended or cancelled, O'Mahoney said, adding:

"The new order clears up certain uncertainties with respect to the administration of the provisions affecting unit agreements."

Such agreements cover operations by drillers in the same fields.

WILLIE GIVES GIRAFFES

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Three giraffes, three polar bears and a $60,000 15th century stained glass window are William Randolph Hearst's Christmas gifts to the city of San Francisco. The window will go to the De Young museum. Fleishacker zoo will get the animals.

Fairy Queen from now on," said Santa.

"Kneel, both of you," said the Fairy Queen, and Helga and the sailor knelt before her. She touched them with her wand, and said, "Now fly to the top of the fireplace."

"But, we can't—" started the two dolls, and then suddenly they felt themselves soaring through the air just like birds or like fairies. Sure enough, they weren't dolls anymore.

To this day they live with the Fairy Queen, and fly to aid boats in storms. Maybe, sometime, they'll be on the boat you're on, but you won't know it.

Everyone rushed to help Santa get off in time. Just at sunset the last toy was packed in his sleigh. He hopped in, snapped the long whip over the reindeer and they rose in the air. As they did Santa turned around and merrily shouted:

MERRY CHRISTMAS, EVERYONE. MERRY CHRISTMAS.

YACHT NAMED FOR FOUNDER OF INSTITUTE

When the next group of sea-going scientists sets sail from San Diego in search of new marine specimens, they probably will make their jaunt in the E. W. Scripps.

Dr. Harold Ulrik Svedrup, director of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla, today announced the acceptance of the institution's new vessel, which he said probably would be named the "E. W. Scripps."

Scripps died in the spring of 1926, as he was cruising aboard his yacht, "Ohio," off the coast of Liberia. According to his wish, he was buried at sea.

From a humble beginning as editor of the Penny Press, which he founded in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1878, and from which he drew a salary of $12 a week, Scripps founded over 30 newspapers, and amassed a fortune exceeding $50,000,000.

He founded the Scripps-McRae chain of papers, later the Scripps Howard Newspapers, the NEA Service, Inc., Allied Newspapers, Inc., and the United Press association.

His endowments to scientific organizations totaled millions. In 1904 he gave his yacht "Loma" to the Scripps Institution, and since that time his entire family has been wrapped in the success of the venture. The institution was turned over to the University of California in 1912.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT AWARDS ANNOUNCED

LONG BEACH. (AP)—Holders of 16 parcels of land in Los Angeles county were awarded $281,334 damages from the Los Angeles bureau of power and light in a decision handed down by Superior Judge Percy Hight.

The decision, in favor of those land holders with whom settlement by the bureau could not be negotiated in connection with the erection of Boulder dam power lines, brought to a close six months of litigation in which nearly 10,000 pages of typewritten transcript were introduced as evidence.

The largest award went to the Padua Hills tract, near Claremont, Calif., involving 1800 acres of hillside property planned for subdivision. Other awards were:

Frederick H. Nuschel, $55,895; Ralph W. Lewis, $48,500; Bud Gray, $33,075; James B. Johnson, $31,365; Gore N. Campbell, $17,550; John B. Tubbs, $12,800; William A. Jones, $12,430.

D. R. Malone estate, $11,505; Dennison Ranch Co., $10,152; W. W. Clary, $9,173; Duquesne Ranch Inc., $8,728; Stevens Ranch Co., $8,000; Mrs. Elsie Pra, $6,978; C. F. Stover, $4,808.

Woman Makes Good As Telephone Company Head

"I'd never done it before, but I figured I could."

So when Mrs. C. J. McMahon of Wayne, West Va., found herself with a thriving telephone company on her hands and nothing to do with it, she sat down and ran it. She's running it still.

Mrs. McMahon is spending Christmas with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McMahon of Santa Ana.

For the past year, ever since the death of her husband, she has been combination telephone girl, cashier, business manager and president of the Wayne Telephone company.

She does all the jobs around the place, since finding she could—and enjoys it. Now she wouldn't sell out and retire for anything. This grey-haired little woman finds the life too exciting, and besides, "money has a habit of slipping through your fingers."

Recently she discovered her job of being telephone girl-president wasn't enough. So now she handles all the office transactions of the Appalachian Power company, too! Today she's "taking a look at Santa Ana and just basking in this wonderful Christmas weather."

WARN OF FAKE BOWL TICKETS

PASADENA. (AP)—S. D. Decker of the Pasadena chief of police's office said today that while he had received "a score of reports" that counterfeit tickets to the New Year's day Rose bowl game have been printed, "so far we have been unable to find any."

His warning was that any who buy tickets get a receipt to identify the seller so that if "they are not genuine they can get their money back."

There was no public sale as California alumni subscribed to all available seats.

Sends Gift to 'Princess'

TWO MILLION UNEMPLOYED
IN COUNTRY

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A Works Progress administration official estimated today that 2,000,000 persons had become unemployed since Sept. 1 and that 1,000,000 more might be out of jobs by the end of February.

These estimates were made by Leon Henderson, consulting economist, while preparations were being made for a senate unemployment investigation beginning Jan. 4.

Henderson gave no estimates of the total number out of work. The labor department reported yesterday that industrial employment fell off 5.8 per cent last month—570,000 workers losing their jobs.

Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, announced recently that WPA rolls would be expanded to care for an additional 350,000 needy employed.

Dancing Will Follow Tea Tonight

Ever an hospitable spot, the Howard Timmons' home on Red Hill avenue, Tustin, has taken on an even more gracious appearance with the holiday season.

Boughs of pine and fir, holly wreaths, mistletoe and a blazing Christmas tree have made it a most effective setting for social affairs and this afternoon saw the daughter of the home, Miss Betty Timmons, receiving at tea for a group of her collegian friends.

The group called at a late hour, and each was greeted by Miss Timmons in a black and white hostess frock, and by her mother, Mrs. Howard Timmons, in undecorated black. They were assisted in serving tea by Miss Josephine Flaherty.

Later this evening a much larger group of friends of both sexes were invited to join Miss Timmons and her guests for dancing and a buffet supper. The invitation was extended informally, and several dozen were expected to attend the affair.

Tea guests included Miss Patricia Emison, Miss Patsy Miller, Miss Barbara Kellogg, Miss Pat Owings, Miss Jean Dowds, Miss Harriet Spicer, Miss Anita Potter, Miss Anna Margaret Bell, Miss Betty Holmes, Miss Bettie Lacy, Miss Lorraine Sweet, Miss Lorraine Tarbox, Miss Willia Fay, Miss Dorothy Davis, Miss Dorothy Flaherty, Miss Jo Flaherty, Miss Elizabeth Winbiger, Miss Chelena McBurney, and Miss Barbara Tucker.

THREE ARE HOSTESSES TO SECTION

One of the lovely section parties of Ebell club given this week was that enjoyed by Second Travel section members when they were entertained at the clubhouse by Mrs. Theo Winbiger, Mrs. M. C. Williams, and Mrs. A. N. Zorn.

Slim white tapers were tied with cottonaster sprays and bright red ribbons to center the luncheon tables, which were also adorned with miniature silver reindeer. A gift exchange was enjoyed by the members after which came a delightful program, including the Christmas readings by Mrs. W. C. Watkins which have come to be traditional in the group, several readings by Lysa Deu Pree, a group of vocal solos by Ann Wetherell, violin numbers by Bobbie Sullivan, and a duet by Marilyn Hamil and Barbara Ruth Buckley.

MRS. STARK HOSTESSES SORORITY GROUP

Mrs. Walter Stark, president of Kappa Delta Phi sorority, was hostess for a charming Christmas party in her home on Tuesday evening. Festivities centered about a gaily lighted tree and gifts which were piled for exchange later.

Bridge was enjoyed through the evening, with Mrs. Frances Lacy winning a sorority pin as first prize. Miss Hum Kendall won second. Late in the evening, the guests gathered around a table, decorated artistically with silvered holly berries.

Those present with Mrs. Stark were Mrs. Chester Siegel, Mrs. Charles Woodard, Mrs. Thomas Pangle, Mrs. Meredith Crumley, Miss Estelle Schlessinger, Miss Rose Allen, Miss Marcene Cook, Miss Hum Kendall, Miss Jean Gaspar, and Frances Lacy.

IVINS HOME IS SETTING FOR HOUSE PARTY

Entertaining at a house party in their home, 114 East Cubbon street, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ivins and daughter Blanche will be host and hostesses over the week-end to a large group of friends and relatives.

These will include Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Anlauf and daughter Virginia from Santa Paula, and Frank R. Neff from Hollywood, who will enjoy the Christmas festivities with a tree and gifts. For the Christmas dinner tomorrow, they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Gates and son Sumner of Anaheim.

Miss Blanche Ivins has planned a beautiful table with a mirror lake surrounded by tiny snowy fir trees, and a Santa in a sleigh with reindeer on the icy lake. The afternoon will be spent in pleasant chat.

Here We Are, Santa! Why Don't You Hurry?

Wide-eyed and beaming, these four kiddies are determined to catch Santa when he arrives at the George Spielman home tonight, even though Jean Spielman, on the right, is beginning to be a bit weary. At her feet is little Ronald Miller, son of the Robert Millers, who with Shirley Stauffer, daughter of the Alvin Stauffers and holding her doll, dropped in to see the lovely Spielman tree. The fourth tot in his woolly sleepers is George Spielman, jr.

Holiday Spirit Fills Each Home As Christmas Joy And Peace Descend Upon The Earth

By BETTY GUILD

Visions of sugarplums, bowls of quivering jelly, mice at a standstill—mingled with scent of juicy, crisp turkey, the fragrance of fir trees laden with sparkling ornaments—shrill cries of joyous children—contented, peaceful smiles of white-haired folk—busy and harassed mothers—bubbling buoyancy of collegians home from school—the friendly warming steam from the Tom and Jerry bowl—cordial open-handedness—and above all the serene goodwill and blessedness of the Christmas spirit—Put them all in the hat, draw any one out—it's Christmas. And in every home in Santa Ana, humble or lavish, there is some of the richness of the Yuletide.

Many are adding to the pleasure of their more intimate family gatherings by extending invitations to their friends to drop in for a bit of Christmas cheer either on the witching eve or the joyous afternoon. Among these are the Emil Wagners, the J. E. Liebiges, the Arthur Durbys, the Harold Dales, and many others whose hospitable "open-houses" have become annual events within their circle of acquaintances.

BRIGGS' DINNER
As is their annual custom, Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs will gather their family around them tomorrow for a luscious Christmas dinner. In the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dillahun, Mr. and Mrs. William Dillahun and Tony, Miss Frances Potts, Miss Gertrude Potts and Miss Cecil Dillahun.

SON IS HOME
Judge and Mrs. J. E. Tucker's son Jimmie will be home from Ventura for the Christmas week-end, and will join them and Barbara, and the two grand-children, Mrs. Hannah Tucker and J. T. Farrer for dinner and the family tree.

AT HOLLES' HOME
The brilliantly lighted tree at the R. C. Holles home on Victoria Drive will have 'round it for the gift-opening the two children of the home, Jane and Harry, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Holles and Jimmy and Judith, and Mr. and Mrs.

Several hundred prominent Orange countians will again be guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Irvine at their Myford road home tomorrow afternoon and evening, when the couple hold annual open house and wassail. Invitations were issued three weeks ago.

This evening is the family's annual Christmas party, when the Irvines will be joined for their tree by their son and daughter-in-law, the William Thornton Whites, by Los Angeles members of the family, and by a few close friends.

BABY'S CHRISTMAS
John Michael, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Elliott (Betty Paul) of 913 Winter street, will spend his first Christmas in his incubator at Santa Ana Valley hospital, where he was placed immediately after birth several weeks ago. He is making normal gain and will be at home after New Year's.

CHILDREN'S FAMILIES
Mrs. Christine Leonard, 1117 South Birch street, will entertain her children's families for dinner and the family Christmas tree tomorrow. In the party will be Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Galtreath, Dick and Jimmie; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schwardt and Glenna Fay, and Miss Mary Leonard and Miles Leonard.

AT SPRAGUE HOME
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sprague and Clarence Sprague will have as guests for dinner tomorrow members of their family, including Mrs. Emma McBride, Miss Bernice McBride and Miss Lena Brock.

TO ALTADENA
Mr. and Mrs. John J. Vernon and Mary, Betty Louise and Peggy will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rumell and Joanna and Charlena when they go to Altadena tomorrow to spend Christmas with an aunt and uncle of Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Rumell, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sholly. Also in the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Good of Gary, Ind., who

EXCHANGE DINNEES
Mr. and Mrs. James Workman and David and Jimmy will dine tonight with the former's parents, the E. B. Workmans of Orange. Also present will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Workman and Robert. Tomorrow they will go to Mrs. Workman's mother's, Mrs. Ellen Holditch of Villa Park.

CONTINUE CUSTOM
Never has Mrs. Riley Huber (Margaret Flagg) missed spending a Christmas under the roof of her parents, the A. G. Flagg, save for that one six years ago when she and her new baby daughter, Linda, were still in the hospital. This year, as is their custom, the Hubers and Linda will spend Christmas eve at the family's, and get up in the morning to join Mr. and Mrs. Flagg and Miss Jimmie for the stocking-opening.

The F. J. Herishers will have members of their family with them for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, in their attractive North (Continued On Page 13)

Sixty Feted With Annual Breakfast

Annual Christmas festivities of the First National bank were enjoyed this morning when a group of 60 gathered in Daniger's cafe for a delicious breakfast, informal program, and exchange of gifts.

W. B. Williams, vice president and cashier, presided as toastmaster of the session, introducing the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who gave a brief Christmas message. Mrs. Ben Livesey sang several appropriate selections, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

The tables were set in a U-shaped arrangement, and attractively decorated with Christmas appointments. Low bowls of pointsettias and holly, tall red tapers, and a fat little Santa Claus made the table gay. Gifts for the annual exchange were used at each place, marking seating arrangements, and they were opened before the breakfast was served.

In charge of all arrangements for the annual party were W. B. Williams, Miss Opal Davis, and Geoffrey Wilde.

Those who participated in the delightful yearly event were A. I. Melenthin, Harry L. Hanson, J. L. Bascom, C. M. Rowland, E. P. Sprague, C. A. Swanson, A. P. Trawick, W. B. Williams, Verna Anderson, Lillian Angle, Merwin Carman, Jessie Carter, Dean Colver, Frank Curran, Opal Davis, James Durham, Paul Eby, Harold Fish, Edna Gammell, Merle Hall, Nell Hall, Laura Harding.

CARPENTERS TO FETE LARGE HOUSE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Carpenter, 1504 West Eighth street, will entertain a house party of the latter's relatives from Friday to Saturday evening of this week-end.

H. A. VanSooyoc and L. H. VanSooyoc will come from Medford, Ore., for the celebration, to join Mr. and Mrs. William VanSooyoc from Beverly Hills. Others to arrive are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Allen and baby son Tommy and Mrs. Thomas Allen from Los Angeles, Mrs. Birch and Miss Estel Birch from Westwood, and Miss Margaret VanSooyoc, sister of the hostesses.

On Friday evening the hostess will serve a buffet supper, the table loaded with pointsettias and red candles. The house group will be joined by Mrs. Lida Keuhl and Miss Margaret Keuhl of Anaheim, and their houseguests, Mrs. Ethel Helm and Miss Jane Helm of Seattle for the supper and lovely tree and gifts following.

The members of the house party will go to Daniger's for a no-host dinner party on Christmas day.

ENTERTAINS AT DANIGER'S

Mrs. Louise Schildmeyer will be hostess at a 1 o'clock family dinner at Daniger's on Christmas day, following which the group will return to the home of the hostess at 209 East Washington street, to enjoy the big beautifully decorated tree and an exchange of gifts. A buffet supper will conclude the party.

The sons and daughters and families who will be present are Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schildmeyer, Nell Marie and Buddy of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hofer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Good, George and Mary, all of Canoga Park; Mr. and Mrs. John Goeberger, Louise and Elmer of Riverside; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schildmeyer, Robert and Edward, of Orange.

SUPPER GIVEN AFTER CONCERT

Holly Lash Visel entertained her talented group of studio artists at a lovely buffet supper last night after the beautiful concert which they presented over the city holiday broadcasting system.

Christmas decorations and a delicious menu were enjoyed by her guests, who numbered Margaret Davies, Lois Newbold, Anne Wetherell, Ruth Townsend, Audrey Hancock, Marjorie Ball, Marjorie Labach, Betty Jane Ward, Ruth Arnst, Cecil Willits, and Betty Jo Willits.

En route now to New York and Boston are the new Mr. and Mrs. Weston Sprague. Mrs. Sprague, shown on the left, is the former Marjorie Lindsay, daughter of the A. J. Lasbys. Their wedding was the first to occur in the new Presbyterian church.

YULE BREAKFAST IS PLANNED BY CURRANS

Observing the old couplet, "Christmas play and cheer, for Christmas comes but once a year," Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curran will entertain at a merry party in their home, 2009 Victoria drive, when they gather the family for a nine o'clock breakfast.

A very lovely table is being arranged with a miniature forest of evergreen resting on green satin ribbon, and each plate marked by tiny green candles. After the jolly meal, the group will go to the living room for distribution of gifts. There will be another lovely scene of the nativity, with bright balls for a background, and a jolly Santa mounted on a music box near by. Those who will gather for the pleasant morning's festivities will be Mr. and Mrs. Howard Curran, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curran, Miss Esther Curran from Beverly Hills, and Frances, Allen, and Catherine Curran of the home.

BRIDGE FOLLOWS LUNCHEON PARTY

Gathering about a pretty table centered with holly berries in a low bowl, a group of eight women enjoyed a no-hostess luncheon at Daniger's cafe Wednesday at 1 o'clock.

Later the group adjourned to the home of Mrs. Frank Miller, 1413 Bush street for an afternoon of contract. The hostess for the game, in an innovation, gave those who held poor hands the prizes for the afternoon. Low scores at each table won the awards, and Mrs. Hazel Turner and Mrs. Blanche Stock were the fortunate losers.

Mrs. Miller had arranged particularly lovely decorations in her home, bunches of desert holly, with little blue bulbs peeping out from the white sprays. Those present were Mrs. E. S. Baker, Miss Marvel Baker, Mrs. Hazel Turner, Mrs. Holmes Bishop, Mrs. Nona Cloyes, Mrs. Blanche Stock, Mrs. William Gregg, and Mrs. Frank Miller.

GIRLS WILL CAROL TONIGHT

Planning to go caroling at 1 a. m. Christmas morning, the high school class of the Christian church Christian Endeavor met this week for a Yuletide party. Anyone wishing to accompany them is asked to meet at the church.

At the party Barbara Gerrard and Ethlyn Brown were in charge of games, Fern Hill in charge of decorations, and Margaret Sullivan, Helen and Hollis Kibbles, and Frances Decker in charge of refreshments.

SOCIAL SECTION
A one o'clock dessert bridge party will be sponsored by members of the Afternoon Social section on Tuesday, Dec. 28 in Veterans hall. Reservations should be made before the affair with Mrs. G. F. Hulse at 3366-J or with Miss Blanche Seely at 4308.

Kiddies Have Yule Party At Club

A merry group of Country Club youngsters had a Christmas party at the clubhouse yesterday, enjoying an afternoon of games, delicious refreshments, and a gift exchange.

Mrs. Riley Huber was in charge of the happy affair, and was assisted by Mrs. E. D. Holmes, jr., in supervising games and contests. Balloons and candy canes lay at each place along the long table with its miniature Christmas tree decorations.

Children present were Ann, Billy, and Robert Stauffer, Margary, Walker, Marilyn Nelson, Carolyn and Jimmie Harrison, Mary Ball, Jeanne Louise Robinson, Margaret and Stanley Reinhaus, Donnie Holmes, Dale Knox, Bobbie Williams, Ronald Miller, Mary Katherine Olewiler, and Linda Huber. Jeanne Louise and Ann were prize-winners.

Mothers present to share in the fun were Mrs. William Stauffer, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. John Ball, Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus, Mrs. Henry Williams, Mrs. Claude Knox, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. W. O. Hill, and Mrs. A. G. Flagg.

COOKS TO FETE LARGE GROUP THIS EVENING

A veritable Christmas fete will be given for the relatives of Mrs. Walter Cook this year, when she and Mr. Cook begin the festivities this evening with a lovely party in their home on McFadden street. The home has been beautifully decorated for the event, and the group will have their tree and gift exchange this evening. In the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards, Henry Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stockton, all of Los Angeles, Mrs. Leona Pickler of San Diego, and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Cook of Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stockton, Miss Lois Stockton and her fiancé Howard Richards of Laguna Beach, Kathryn Stockton, Mrs. Myrie Carpenter and sons Graham and Billy Carpenter joined the group.

On Christmas day, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stockton will entertain the same group at a one o'clock dinner. In the center of the table will be an artistic arrangement of silvered fir branches from which will rise numerous tall slim red tapers. At either end of the table will be silver holders with red candles.

FOWLERS PLAN FULL DAY'S CELEBRATION

Christmas celebrations at the A. E. Fowler home, 1128 South Flower street, will begin this evening when seven grandchildren appear to spend the night and await the arrival of Santa Claus and his gifts.

At 7 a. m. tomorrow, the entire group will gather to open their presents before a blazing fire. At one o'clock, the adults will arrive for the turkey dinner and their share of the gifts.

In the group will be Mr. and Mrs. Orville Fowler with Doris and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fowler with Shirley Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Banks with Lois and Dolores, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fowler with baby Dale, and Miss Emma Belle Fowler of the home. Others to gather will be Mr. and Mrs. Ed Satterlee of Escondido, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Fowler, and J. W. Fletcher.

SANTA ANANS ATTEND DANCE

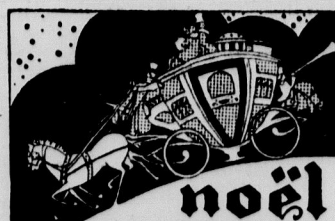

Four members of the local Delta Chi Sigma Sorority and their escorts attended a formal Christmas dance given by Psi chapter in the lovely Plato Real room of the U. S. Grant hotel, San Diego, one night recently.

Those attending were Miss Carol Smith in burnt orange taffeta; Miss Kathleen Maddock in black velvet; Miss Ruth Souder in blue lace, and Mrs. Lloyd Manderscheid, in flowered taffeta, escorted by Laurence Farrar, Louis Rogers, Bob Crawford, and Lloyd Manderscheid.

XMAS MUSIC IN 3 CHURCHES

Among many outstanding programs of Christmas music being presented Sunday in Santa Ana churches are three services of Christmas music, including two vespers hours.

Evening services in the First Christian church at 7 o'clock will be directed by the young people's groups. The program will include solos by Dick Brown and Paty Williams, and the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan preaching on "For Tomorrow." Barbara Gerrard and Ethelene Brown, Chas. Leona, college students, will play "Ave Maria" as a violin and piano duet, and the Sullivan trio will sing.

In the new First Presbyterian church Sunday the Cathedral choir will sing Handel's "The Messiah," during vespers to begin at 4:30 p. m. Soloists will be Marion Graaf, soprano; G. Willard Bassett, tenor, and Howard Youel, baritone.

The choir of the First Evangelical church will present the cantata, "The Story of Christmas," by H. Alexander Mathew at vespers services beginning at 5 p. m.

CHOIR IN SPECIAL MUSIC

A special program of Christmas music will be given by the choir of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, under the direction of James W. Nuckolls, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Included on the program will be "A Christmas Melody" by Le Mare, and "Gloria" by Mozart played on the organ by Miss Heather Covington. Miss Leona Baxter and Irma Baxter Owen will sing a duet, "O Holy Night," and an instrumental trio composed of Anna Mae Archer, Edna Walker, and Kenneth Aiken will play the offertory.

The congregational hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful," by Mayer will be led by Walter E. Tipton, and the Rev. Cecil M. Aker, pastor, will read the invocation and doxology. Choir selections will include "Sanctus" by Gounod with Mrs. Arthur May singing the solo part, and the proclamation of the new born king, including "Silent Night," "Kings of Orient," "Let the Voice of Songs Awake," "Harp of Gold" and "Arise, Shine for the Light is Come."

PASTOR LIONS' CLUB SPEAKER

"I know of no better way to perpetuate the Christmas spirit than to practice the teachings of Paul—Bear ye one another's burdens, and thus fulfill the law of Christ."

That was the Christmas message brought to Lions club members yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Harry I. Rasmus, jr., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. Mr. Rasmus urged consideration of the spiritual meaning of the holiday in the club's annual observance of the season.

The speaker, newest Santa Ana clergyman, was introduced by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock of the First Congregational church, dean of Santa Ana ministers.

Service Ends Yule Festival

The main Christmas service will be held Sunday morning in the Unitarian church, concluding the festival which will open with a Christmas party, tree and pageant this evening. The children will assist Sunday with a service of sacrifice and candle light.

"Where the Angels Got Their Song" will be the topic of the sermon, the fourth and concluding one of a special series detailing the beginnings of Christianity. Christmas greetings will be distributed from the tree by the children to all who attend the 11 a. m. service.

SANTA ANA CHURCHES WELCOME YOU SERMONETTE

(ON THIS WEEK'S CHURCH SCHOOL LESSON)
By Glenn L. Thorne

"His Name Shall Be Called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace"

8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around about them; and they were sore afraid.

10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

11 For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, 14 Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Silent night! Holy night! All is calm, all is bright—
Round you virgin, mother and Child!
Holy Infant, so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night! Holy night! Shepherds quake at the sight—
Glories stream from Heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia,
Christ the Savior, is born!

Silent night! Holy night! Son of God, love's pure light—
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth.

O come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye
To Bethlehem—
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of Angels,
Oh come let us adore Him . . .
Christ the Lord!

Sing, choirs of Angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing all ye citizens
Of Heaven above—
Glory to God,
In the highest, glory!
O come let us adore him . . .
Christ the Lord.

ON EARTH PEACE,
GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN"

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

The writer of this column wants to make plain that he bears no enmity toward the members of the E. E. Proud, John W. Sauer and 19th district board. He considers John L. White, the Orange county member of the board splendid gentlemen. He has similar respect for Dr. C. S. Harper of Riverside and Judge George Sorkness of Hemet and John A. Cubley of Corona. The three men from San Bernardino he is not acquainted with but knows that they must be high type Townsends or they would not have received the honor bestowed upon them by being selected to represent their county as members of the 19th district board.

Not long ago this column lauded these men for the fine contributions which they had made to the progress of the Townsend movement as members of the board. He does not doubt that they are sincere in believing the welfare of the Townsend cause depends more or less on the continuance of a district board with authoritative power, but it does not necessarily mean that in such an assumption they are right. In fact this writer believes such an assumption is wrong. He has ever confidence in the continued loyalty of the Townsends of the district to the Townsend plan principles and the leadership of Dr. Francis E. Townsend whether the district board is continued or not. The Townsend movement in the district went along very nicely before a district board was ever thought of and will likely do so again if it is decided to dispense with such a body.

However, this column goes on record as favoring trying out the having of a district board in advisory capacity only as the national headquarters bulletin No. 11 makes possible. He suggests that if such a type board is decided upon for the district that the number of the members of the board be increased to a total of 15 members, or five from each of the three counties composing the district, in order that a better representation of all sections of each of the three counties can be enjoyed. Such an enlargement of the board would result in new ideas and perhaps better interpretation of opinions generally prevailing among the clubs. But in this connection he wants it strictly understood that he does not favor continuing of the board in its present authoritative form. He believes this district should be loyal to Dr. Townsend's leadership and fall in line with the rest of the nation in eliminating authority from district boards. To do otherwise would foster rebellion against the national leadership of our great and honored leader.

Not long ago an attempt was made to divorce Dr. Townsend from the leadership of the Townsend movement in this district and over the nation and to substitute other leadership in his stead. Immediately our present district board and District Manager J. H. Walsh condemned severely the groups and their leadership making the attempt, branding the revolting groups as rebelling against the leadership of Dr. Townsend. This column thinks the board and the district manager performed a valuable service to the Townsend cause of the district in squelching in a measurable degree the rebellion. He hasn't forgotten that. He believes in giving credit where credit is due as it is in that connection. But the menace of the general welfare legion as a formidable enemy is past. The rebellion as an active force is dead—in fact so dead that dynamite couldn't resurrect it. True, the General Welfare clubs still go through the semblance of activity but there's no force, no power, no vitality and no appeal any longer to their movement and hence no necessity of keeping our organization engaged in a war that's already been won.

To the writer, for this district to fail to fall in line with national headquarters' decree, that district boards of authority are to be discontinued savors of staging a little rebellion of our own against the leadership of Dr. Townsend. Surely our district board and the district manager will do as all good Townsends should always do and that is fall in line with what the national movement under the leadership of the doctor concludes is best for the movement as a whole. This column hopes that mature reflection will result in the members of the district board and the present district manager together with the clubs reflecting the board's opinions deciding to not spoil the record of the good work they have accomplished by rebelling against the leadership of Doctor Townsend as expressed in the official bulletin No. 11, that district boards of authority be discontinued. In order to win the battle we are fighting for economic freedom there must be uniformity of effort the nation over, hence the need of abiding by national headquarters' decrees.

Flaherty to Keep Office in S. A.

R. D. Flaherty, resigning secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, will maintain offices in Santa Ana for the next six months, he announced today. Flaherty was recently named organizational director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, for the 11 western states. His work will keep him "on the road" most of the time, he said, but a permanent headquarters will not be selected until some time next summer.

His successor will be named by directors of the bureau next Tuesday. Flaherty boasts a continuous record of eight years in his post, with two prior years in 1922 and 1923.

Many deep sea fish have phosphorescent organs which serve to give light around them, and attract prey.

Bible Students Conduct Service

A group of Bible students from Angelus Temple, L. I. F. E. Bible college, will conduct a special service in the Foursquare church, Sycamore and Fairview streets, at 11 a. m. Sunday.

A young preacher, Clyde Compton, will bring the sermon, and a musical program will be presented by a quartet composed of Vincent Knottman, Bill Stevenson, Marjorie Grisct and Donald Grisct, both of Tustin.

TEMPLAR RITES

RIVERSIDE. (AP)—Commanderies of Knights Templar throughout California will be closely united for 15 minutes tomorrow morning when six radio stations scattered in the state will broadcast a Yuletide message by Sir Knight Oakley K. Morton, right eminent grand commander.

Four Dead in Mexico 'Quakes

MEXICO CITY. (AP)—Four deaths were attributed today to a series of earthquakes that left widespread minor damage to buildings and streets.

A minute-long shock that rocked all Southern Mexico yesterday morning was followed by two other lighter quakes last night.

Dispatches from a dozen southern states told of panic, minor damage and several cases of personal injury.

Four Killed in Christmas Crash

SALINAS. (AP)—Three persons were killed today when an automobile laden with Christmas presents collided head-on with a truck near here.

The dead: William Formay, Jr., 17, Los Altos; Mrs. Miles A. Sharkey, 58, Redwood City; Miles A. Sharkey, 60, Redwood City.

The dead boy's father, William Formay, Sr., 41, suffered severe head injuries.

UNION HEAD IN HONOLULU DISCHARGED

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Harry Lundberg, secretary-treasurer of the Sailors' union of the Pacific, announced today the union had suspended its Honolulu agent, Dan DeLuca, on charges he had mis-conducted the balloting in the present balloting vote.

"He was suspended immediately for violating the sailors' constitution by intimidating sailors into voting for the CIO," Lundberg stated.

Morris Weisberger, San Francisco, was dispatched to take the place of DeLuca, who had been acting temporarily during absence of the regular agent.

Ballots cast so far in Honolulu will be sent here by mail to be counted when the coast voting is completed Dec. 31, Undeberg said.

"There's $41 of mine in the jail safe. I'd like these kids to have it. Maybe you can get them some toys and cloths and things. They ought to have to merry Christmas."

The man was Fred Palmer. The $41 was Smith's loot from robbing Palmer's tavern.

He had lost $20 but had saved $150.

Just before Christmas for the last eight or nine years gunmen have visited his store and taken all the cash. So he wasn't surprised to look into the barrel of a pistol last night and hear one of the robbers say: "Your money."

Sam still was snickering when the next customer arrived. Elated, he told the customer how he had outwitted the robbers by hiding $150 in a shoe box.

The customer smiled, bought some socks and walked out. Five minutes later he was back with a pistol in his hand.

"The shoe box—please," he said.

Sam Smiles, Fools Thieves, But Only Temporarily

CHICAGO. (AP)—Sam Ragalie smiled a self-satisfied smile when two gunmen departed after cleaning the till in his shoe store.

He had lost $20 but had saved $150.

Just before Christmas for the last eight or nine years gunmen have visited his store and taken all the cash. So he wasn't surprised to look into the barrel of a pistol last night and hear one of the robbers say: "Your money."

Sam still was snickering when the next customer arrived. Elated, he told the customer how he had outwitted the robbers by hiding $150 in a shoe box.

The customer smiled, bought some socks and walked out. Five minutes later he was back with a pistol in his hand.

"The shoe box—please," he said.

Can You Do This For a Day?

There is a profusion of good things for most of us this Christmas; some of them are not of the body, but of the mind.

For the sake of the mind and spirit, we pass on to you this article on "Keeping Christmas" written by Henry Van Dyke. We know no better one to read on Christmas eve.

"It is a good thing to observe Christmas day. The mere marking of times and seasons, when men agree to stop work and make merry together, is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one to feel the supremacy of the common life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then, by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time. But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas day, and that is, keeping Christmas.

"Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you, and to think what you owe the world; to put your rights in the background and your duties in the middle distance, and your chance to do a little more than your duty in the foreground; to see that your fellowmen are just as real as you are, and try to look behind their faces to their hearts, hungry for joy; to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life; to close your book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness—are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

"Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and desires of little children; to remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you, and to ask yourself whether you love them enough; to bear in mind the things that other people have in their hearts; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you; to trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke, and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you; to make a grave for your ugly thoughts and a garden for your kindly feelings, with the gate open—are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

"Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world—stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death—and that the blessed life which began in Bethlehem nineteen hundred years ago is the image and brightness and Eternal Love? Then you can keep Christmas.

"And if you can keep it for a day, why not always? But you can never keep it alone."

Russia holds her first elections and shoots four politicians. Now, if that can be just adapted to democratic procedure.

Whose Fault?

In the present national campaign to reduce traffic deaths, more emphasis should be laid on education of the pedestrian.

A great many fatalities are the fault of the driver—but others are the fault of the man who is crossing the street, or walking along the road.

The pedestrian should be taught that there is often a point of invisibility in which a dark-clothed person can stand amid the confusing glare of oncoming lights and the glitter of wet pavement and yet be unseen by the most careful motorist.

It is because of this point of invisibility that we have our rules calling for crossing only at regular intersections. The great majority of motorists and pedestrians alike respect these intersections—that is why in many cases where pedestrians are killed, the victim has been struck down crossing in the middle of the block, where the motorist did not expect to find him.

Undoubtedly, the greatest factor in traffic deaths is the careless motorist. But the percentage of casualties could be cut down by eliminating the careless pedestrian as well.

Hollywood is pretty mad at radio commentators and will employ a gossip to gossip about the gossips.

Yes, It Is Not

There are many horrible aspects of modern warfare, but none more cold-bloodedly brutal than the race to be first to kill 100 enemy soldiers, a race between two Japanese sub-lieutenants, and concerning which "box scores" have been coming quite regularly over the news wires.

A recent score was 68 to 79, or some such figure. Thus enumerating the victims, the war office propagandists are defeating their own purpose, for 68 or 79 personally-killed corpses—even though they be poor Chinese coolies—is a lot more horrible staring out of the printed page than an impersonal "thousands killed in great battle."

The expert and personal death dealers, if they are to go on to a logical end, must soon start scalping their victims, or grouping them under headings as "soldiers," "non-combatants," "women," "children" and "very young babies."

War is glorious—is it not?

Just as everybody supposed, a child psychologist socked the child who hit him with a snowball.

FAIR Enough

Here's Inside of Race Track Suppression

By Westbrook Pegler

When, in October, Governor Robert Emmett Quinn of Rhode Island, called out the national guard to suppress horse racing at Narragansett park in retaliation for certain insults to him by Walter O'Hara, the manager of the great and profitable gambling plant, one of my constituents scolded me for proceeding to Providence to cover the story. He accused me of evading Armageddon to write about a brawl in a back room, but I had a feeling that there was more to this case than a mere temperamental and political falling out between a couple of loose-lip connemaras, and tried apparently without success, to explain what it all meant to posterity.

This has now been done, however, by Zachariah Chafee, Jr., a Rhode Islander who is a professor of law at Harvard, in a paper-bound pamphlet called "State House vs. Penthouse," which comes to the conclusion that, if the troops were illegally called then Quinn himself and every soldier in the detail from the general down to the newest acting back, is liable for the loss suffered by O'Hara and the other stockholders of Narragansett park.

As to the soldiers, he gives the interesting opinion, supported by citations, that an order from a superior does not justify the commission of an illegal act, although he admits that, in certain conditions, a patriot in arms has only a choice between being shot by a firing squad for refusal and hanging at the hands of the civil executioner for obedience.

A GRITTY STORY

Professor Chafee's little writing goes into the cheap and gritty details of the political contest leading up to the declaration of martial law to suppress an imaginary state of insurrection at the horse yard, and altogether, his study reads like a brief for O'Hara and the gambling joints which aspired to run the state and almost did. But that is only because Governor Quinn, in a wild Irish rage against a cunning and provocative enemy, forgot his lawyerism and started swinging from his heels with the weapons of his office. The governor admitted to me, for example, that he skipped the courts because he couldn't be sure of winning the decision and used the soldiers to cripple O'Hara by shutting off his revenue from the pari-mutuel windows.

Professor Chafee estimates that the track lost $167,000 in gambling profits alone, and goes into the wisdom of legalizing a nuisance which has great resources, drained from the public, with which to buy itself off from death. The owners of a track are tempted to preserve their racket by bribing officials and party leaders with money and stock.

In this case, the horse park had 600 jobs to distribute on the patronage basis, and O'Hara's sense of political power was such that in a conversation in his penthouse at the park he told me of his own intention to impeach Quinn and get another governor. He was going to call the legislature, he would have a majority, and he would upset the government of a state whose people obviously, to his mind, had ceased to be citizens of Rhode Island and become citizens of a race track.

COURT REVERSED ORDERS

O'Hara's job paid $75,000 a year, but the state racing authorities, who owed their jobs to Quinn, purported to sit impartially on two sets of charges which resulted in two orders to the race track company to fire him. Both orders were reversed by the state supreme court, and after that Quinn sent the soldiers to keep the track shut—a course which, if upheld, would authorize a future governor of suitable temperament (perhaps O'Hara himself considering his ambitions) to use the national guard to close the premises of any lawful business for political or personal reasons.

The state racing officials found themselves acting in legislative, executive and judicial capacities, and Professor Chafee departs from the localized and ribald circumstances of this particular case to consider the effect of a similar concentration of power in a state or federal commission having to do with other phases of life.

"The battle is chiefly important not for what happened but for what it revealed," he writes. "The people of Rhode Island have seen what was rendered easy by an ill-planned and outworn constitution—subservience of officials to the superior who can remove them, reckless use of military force, seizure of property without the slightest legislative authorization, and public apathy which renders the mass of citizens willing to accept the overriding of civil government by soldiers."

That is what I was trying to tell you in October.

I spent the day Christmas shopping. As near as I can figure I spent about an hour shopping and the other seven hours fighting the traffic into town and back. I couldn't help thinkin' how much more fun it would be if we could sail over the roof tops like Santa Claus does.

When Uncle Unie and Aunt Boo were out here, not long ago, they did their Christmas shopping while they were here and today I gotta letter from Aunt Boo and she told me she hadn't been able to sleep since she got back.

She says every night Uncle Unie dreams that he's back in the city and he keeps movin' the bed around to avoid the parking laws. (Copyright, 1937)

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Christmas at the White House is a jolly day with the Roosevelts; East room filled by family and staff as gifts are handed out; White House almost gloomy under Coolidges when economy ruled; Hoovers' Christmas was sedate, President was reserved, grave.

WASHINGTON.—Christmas in the White House under the Roosevelts really begins two days earlier, when the President gives a tea to members of his office staff.

During the early days of the New Deal when Mr. Roosevelt was both President and an author, the question of gifts to the staff was fairly easy. He gave them autographed copies of his books, "Looking Forward" in 1933, and "On Our Way" in 1934. After he became too busy to be an author he fell back on Mr. Morgenthau's Treasury Department and passed out crisp new dollar bills. (He paid for them himself, however.)

Mrs. Roosevelt is a much more far-sighted Santa Claus. She always begins her Christmas shopping the preceding January, and all through the year she shops as she runs—pottery from a wayside stand in New England, baskets from a New York school for the blind, neckties from a benefit sale for an orphanage in Dutchess County, pewter from her own Val-Kill Shop, furniture from the mountaineer handicraft shop in Reidsville, W. Va., and rugs or embroidery from Berea College, Kentucky.

By Christmas Eve she has an assortment not only for her own big family but for members of the White House staff—the butler, the footmen, the cooks, the maids, the special police—who with their wives and children total about one hundred.

Gathered around the tree in the East Room, all the members of the Roosevelt family distribute these presents. Even Mrs. James Roosevelt, sr., joins in the distribution, though when Sister and Buzzie were here they wanted to do all the work. This was the part of Christmas they seemed to enjoy most.

FAMILY TREE
The East Room is electrically lighted, but the family tree in the second floor hall is lit by a fire-proof solution, then lighted by candles.

"A Christmas tree does not look right without real candles," declares Mrs. Roosevelt. "It must smell of hot evergreen." The real Roosevelt Christmas is a very intimate affair. Only the family is present. But when you consider that this means Mrs. James Roosevelt, sr., Marguerite LeHand, Jimmy, Mrs. Jimmy, their two small daughters, Franklin, Jr., and his new wife, plus John just home from Harvard, and sometimes Elliott's family or the Boettgers, it is not a minor occasion.

On Christmas Eve, the President reads Dickens' Christmas Carol (Mrs. Hoover engaged a professional reader) and the whole family, both children and adults, hang their stockings on the mantel of the President's room.

Ordinarily the President does not awaken early. But on Christmas morning he has no alternative. His grandchildren are on his neck at dawn. And from that moment until sundown the White House probably witnesses more pandemonium per square inch than all the hectic heterogeneous, far-flung agencies of the New Deal put together.

COOLIDGE CHRISTMAS

Christmas under the Coolidges was drab in comparison. Those were the days of fervid Coolidge economy when Calvin insisted that his staff use up lead pencils to the last stub and refrain from using bent paper clips as pipe cleaners. Result was that members of the White House staff always could recognize their gifts as pass-me-ons which Cal himself had received.

Both Coolidge boys were grown when their father first took office, and as the President's father never visited the White House at Christmas the executive mansion seemed almost like a tomb.

The only real festivity to mark the holiday season as far as Calvin Coolidge was concerned, was to stand at the head of a long line of strangers on New Year's Day and extend a stiff and solemn hand.

HOOPER CHRISTMAS
The White House took on a noticeable change, though not exactly a formal glow, when the Hoovers arrived. Lughubrious as Mr. Hoover was, he made a prodigious effort to unbend on Christmas day. Also, he had grandchildren.

Peggy Ann was five and Peter was three when their grandfather became President. And although never greatly impressed by the embellishments of that high office, they have not forgotten, even today, how Larry Richey burst out from the fireplace in the East Room on Christmas morning.

Larry, who was Hoover's most confidential secretary, was about the most genial and conscientious Santa Claus ever to scramble down the White House chimney. He prepared for the part with all such skill which once made him such a successful Burns detective.

A mass of evergreens in the fireplace shielded his descent and ascent, while a careful perusal of letters to Santa Claus, in conjunction with Grandmother Hoover, sometimes resulted in such a surprise that the child would protest from Peggy Ann that she had "so many things, won't you please give this to some poor little girl, Santa?" that Larry was forced to retire with some of his presents.

Christmas with the Hoovers really began the night before, with a small dinner to the White House secretariat and their wives. It was sedate, but not sombre. Afterwards, Mrs. Hoover carried out the custom handed down in her family, of turning out the lights while a festive party trooped through the house holding candles and singing carols.

Grasping a candle in one hand, Mr. Hoover bravely led the procession which ended on the great stairway in the front hall. Here Mrs. Hoover had arranged white ribbons attached to bells, one on each stair, and the entire assemblage stood with lighted candles and chimed their bells.

Afterward, the family helped trim the tree, while Mr. Hoover stood solemnly on the side-lines. Despite his usual smile, he looked unhappy and ill at ease. Finally he would steal quietly away to his desk in the Lincoln study. (Copyright, 1937)

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our raw material. Public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent, fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

TWO CHRISTMAS SHIPS

To the Editor: A small child re-tracing its steps and dropping a nickel in a Salvation Army kettle in Santa Ana, and hurrying on to join his mother, who was obviously a woman in moderate circumstances, has served to remind that years ago two ships, not commissioned for war or chartered for commerce, just before the Christmas season sailed from New York and Philadelphia across wintry seas with food, clothing, gifts and toys for the war widows and orphans of Europe, where the most populous country then not involved in war, is now ravaged by civil war and invasion.

The names of the vessels have escaped me, and I am uncertain whether the time was December, 1915 or 1916. The plan of sending the Christmas ships originated, as I recall, with John Wanamaker, the merchant prince, who furnished transportation for one of the cargoes—the equivalent of the contents of a freight train of 100 cars.

The necessary supplies were gathered and money subscribed within a few days after the idea was suggested, and the ships were swiftly loaded. At headquarters an endless panorama of numberless men, women and children donating money and supplies must have presented an inspiring picture of the contagion of generosity and good will. The wealthy gave of their riches and the poor out of their poverty.

It may be, mechanics stood in line with prosperous business men, and perhaps a woman in worn clothes, willing to stint herself to make a sacrifice, remembering when her grown son was just a little boy, or possibly a bereaved mother offered the clothes her lost baby would have worn, or a little girl gave a treasured doll. An engineer, in blue overalls and blouse and begrimed with smoke, may have given the donations of engine-men and train crews, followed by an aged man, with faltering footsteps, willing to share his dwindling competence, or a child offering a few bright pennies clutched in its hand.

Churches, charitable organizations, lodges and service clubs, merchants, professional people, store and factory workers, draymen and taxi drivers, gave their donations. Loads of provisions came rumbling in from the countryside.

Inmates of hospitals and orphanages sent their contributions; and even the prisoners in the eastern penitentiaries with their scant earnings bought barrels of flour—from these came gifts to relieve privation and distress and to lighten sorrow.

Ambassadors, ministers and consuls of the hostile powers cooperated to advance a project so obviously designed to succor war victims. The English, Scotch, Irish, French, Belgians, Germans, Austrians, Bulgarians, Roumanians and Russians shared in the Christmas supplies.

The European war lords, deaf to other appeals to humanitarian impulses or for unity of action, yielded to this human interest project, and agreed to pass the gifts through military lines to their destination. It would have been refreshing and inspiring to a beleaguered and heartbroken world if the war victims in Spain and China had been this year so befriended and cheered.

To thousands of women and children whose lives had been darkened by war, grief and want, the Christmas ships bearing their cargoes of food, supplies and gifts—along with messages of peace and good will—must have seemed like re-echoes of the gift that awakened the shepherds of Judea on the first Christmas night.

What Other Editors Say

INTEREST IN MILLS CASE

There has been a good deal in the newspapers lately about the Mills case at Anaheim. Off-hand, it might seem that a lot of fuss is being stirred up over what was done with a few hundred boxes of oranges.

The issue, however, has a larger significance. It involves the question of whether or not the fruit standardization program can be enforced. It involves the question of whether or not frozen fruit can be sent to market as the shipper may please.

The whole industry, therefore, is concerned in the outcome of such a test case as that presented at Anaheim.

The need of standardization has been proved by the bitter experience of the orange industry. Before now, markets have been broken and buyers driven away by the shipment of unfit fruit. The best interest of the industry, both this year and in the years ahead, is served by strict enforcement.

These considerations account for the unusual amount of interest exhibited in the Mills case.—Orange Daily News.

A style article declares that more than a dozen men in America know how to wear a hat with that certain dash—like Clive Brook, the actor, Jean Patou, the dressmaker. The majority set their hats to straight up and down. The exaggeration that gives Stan Laurel his comic effect. Victor Moore's best asset is wearing a hat that would be suitable for a man 75 pounds less in weight. By not carrying this disparity too far he achieves a more subtle effect than that of the attempted broad burlesque. Ed Wynne of course, built his fame on cock-eyed hatting.

Several presidents have been careless about the tilt of their hats. President Franklin Roosevelt and ex-President Hoover, for instance. Calvin Coolidge, however, seemed able to find a hat entirely becoming. Grant's derby and Cleveland's silk hat were the topics of music hall ditties and jests. The most gifted American hat wearer is doubtless John Barrymore.

Alexander Woolcott seems to have stepped off the deep end without a farewell bow. While he shows up for an occasional radio broadcast on some special topic, he is mostly incommunicado in a retreat in his college town in Vermont. No one knows the why of his withdrawal from the literary and radio scene in which he has been such a conspicuous figure. Some say he is merely tired and needs seclusion for meditation with perhaps a book or so to write in prospect. Others say his drastic efforts to reduce were responsible for a physical slow-up. Woolcott's closest friend is Neyna McMein, the illustrator. A platonic friendship, of course, for she is happily married to John Baragwanath, the mining engineer. She has been his confidant for years, his only correspondent while traveling.

The most accomplished of the Chinese experts are given by the Roy Howards. Various dishes are cooked exactly to specifications from recipes picked up on their many visits to China and served according to native custom. Those invited are expected to use chop sticks, wrapped in cellophane at each plate-side, a packet which also contains an individual toothpick.

Something went out of American life when the toothpick was only posted to oblivion. While it may be gauche to use in an open, I prefer the unashamed method of skulking behind a napkin and gouging away while the face is wreathed in a beautiful expression. Toothpicks from quills and sealed in tissue are as much a part of the menu in French restaurants as table wine. And every hotel in America had a supply in a little red glass at the exit of dining rooms 15 years ago. I rather hope toothpicks will come back. I'm alluding to wear as a watch fob that Uncle Alex dandy with a peephole showing Niagara Falls in the center, a toothpick at one end and an ear spoon at the other.
